Bombs have been found or have exploded in various parts of London recently. The bombs are believed to be the work of the IRA, seeking to extend their guerrilla war from Northern Ireland to Britain.

Letter bomb hurts woman at embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secretary at the British Embassy was seriously injured today in an explosion. Officials said a letter bomb apparently was the cause.

The secretary was sorting mail on the sixth floor of the embassy, officials said. The explosion occurred about 9 a.m.

George Washington University hospital officials identified the victim as 51-year-old Nora Murray and said she lost one hand and that the other was seriously injured.

Cyclamate ban reversal sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration will be asked later this month to reverse its 1969 ban on cyclamates, says Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt.

Abbott Laboratories will petition for the reversal and is expected to cite new research findings, Schmidt said in an interview. But he said the FDA will require "some harder scientific data than we've got now" before changing its mind about the cancer hazard of the food and beverage additive.

TEACHERS in both the Washington C.H. and Miami Trace District schools held general meetings Monday morning for a final review of plans for the reopening of the schools after the summer vacation. Classes will start Tuesday on the regular schedules. The teachers met last week with the principals of the various schools to get the background for the general meetings today.

At the offices of the superintendents, Edwin Nestor of the city schools, and Guy Foster, of the Miami Trace schools, it was reported that enrollment will not be known until after attendance is checked the first day.

The city schools include the senior high school, junior high school and five elementary schools. The Miami Trace system includes the high school and 11 elementary schools.

BETWEEN 50 and 75 young people, plus quite a few adults, attended the reception Sunday afternoon for the two foreign students who will attend Washington Senior High School during the coming year. Just how many were there is conjectural, because they came and went at the home of Mr. and

Insurgents cut off 2 highways

Cambodian fighting flares

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Communist-led insurgents pushed closer to Phnom Penh today, cutting the capital's highway to the sea again at a point 15 miles from the city.

The fighting for control of Highways 4 and 5, the country's major supply lines, was the heaviest since the end of U.S. bombing 12 days ago. Battles were reported at several spots along both routes.

In the closest major clash, Khmer Rouge rebel forces surrounded a company of government troops a half mile from Ang Snoul on Highway 4, about 15 miles west of Phnom Penh. A civilian vehicle was ambushed and two persons were killed and another was wounded.

Highway 4 connects Phnom Penh with Kompong Som, Cambodia's only deepwater seaport, from which supplies flow into the capital city.

Highway 4 and Highway 5, which connects Phnom Penh to the rice-growing Province of Battambang to the northwest, were cut Sunday for the first time in nearly two months.

"Fighting is reported on the principal routes during the last 24 hours," said Col. Am Rong, the government's chief military spokesman. "The enemy is trying to create some difficulty by stopping supplies to Phnom Penh."

The cutting of the two highways left Mekong river convoys from Saigon as Phnom Penh's only sources of supply.

The spokesman said both highways were cut at points where they are crossed by the insurgents' supply corridors. He said the Khmer Rouge and their North Vietnamese allies were trying to keep their own routes open so they could supply their forces in the

See tapes decision delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — It could be the end of October, or later, before there is a final court decision on whether President Nixon must release White House tapes to a federal grand jury and it is unlikely any indictments will be issued until then.

And, if the court battle goes beyond Dec. 5, the term of the grand jury investigating the break-in and cover-up would expire. There is no way of extending it under the rules of procedure for the federal courts.

The prosecutors could be forced to go ahead without the tapes or face the prospect of having to introduce a new panel to the complex case.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica has promised to have his decision on the tapes by Wednesday. But there still would remain the time-consuming written and oral arguments before the Court of Appeals and then the Supreme Court before a final decision.

According to many forecasts, it could be near the end of October before a decision would come from the Supreme Court.

The possibility that it could take even longer led Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox to appeal in his brief for quick action.

Cox said time would be needed after the evidence was received to pursue leads and "also for adequate deliberation."

He also wrote that it would be "of questionable propriety" for the grand jury to vote whether to return indictments prior to receipt of the evidence sought.

Cox also must know whether the tapes would or would not be available to defendants and their counsel before the indictments are drawn up.

The Supreme Court ruled in 1963 that the government must provide defense counsel with any material in its possession that might tend to show the innocence of the defendant.

Appearing Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" presidential adviser Melvin R. Laird was asked about an earlier statement in which he said Nixon should release the tapes and whether he still felt that way.

"No, I am supporting his position and I believe the judicial branch should make this determination," Laird said.

"It has been presented to the courts, and my advice ... was political advice and it did not take into consideration the over-all legal requirements," he said.

Swedish gunman retains hostages

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The besieged gunman holding four hostages in a locked bank vault told police early today that he had tied them to the walls. He said that if anesthetizing gas were pumped in they would strangle when they lost consciousness.

Police immediately suspended operations to capture the gunman and a convicted murderer with him and free the three young women and a man taken hostage last Thursday.

The police agreed to a truce until 9 a.m. EDT, lowered sandwiches and drinking water through an opening they had drilled in the ceiling of the vault, and withdrew their forces from the area. They gave no indication what they would do when the truce ended.

"We would not like to see these young people hanged, that's why we agreed to a truce," said Police Chief Curt Lindroth.

"We are dealing with an inhuman being who does not hesitate at anything. We could hear the girls plead for their lives. Their despair was genuine."

Police began drilling through the ceiling of the 19-by-40-foot vault Sunday night in apparent preparation for the gas attack. The gunman fired one shot into the vault's ventilator drum during the drilling, but nobody was hit.

The police had been trying to starve the gunman out since the six were locked in the vault on Saturday. Police had refused them food, water or a portable toilet.

The gunman told police Sunday he had burned about half of the $650,000 ransom paid him last week. Apparently this was in response to the suggestion of a reporter in a telephone interview with the man that he burn the money as a symbolic protest against prison conditions.

The man was also promised safe passage out of Sweden if he released the hostages, but he insisted on taking two of them with him.

The drama began Thursday when police interrupted the gunman while he was robbing the bank in downtown Stockholm. One policeman was wounded in the hand by the robber, who was armed with a submachine gun and carried more than a pound of explosives.

He holed up in the bank with the three women and one man as hostages. The gunman then ordered that Clark Olofsson be brought to the bank. He is a convicted bank robber and police killer who escaped from prison twice and last month unsuccessfully tried to blast his way out with dynamite.

The police at first identified the gunman as Kaj Hansson, a 21-year-old escaped convict, but he turned up in Honolulu. Reliable sources said the man was a 32-year-old safecracker who escaped from prison on Aug. 2.

Nixon relaxes with drives along California freeways

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Three times in three days last week, the Coast Guard sentry snapped to attention with a brisk salute as an ordinary-looking sedan approached.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, President Nixon went out through the gate of the Western White House, seeking relaxation by cruising on California's busy freeways.

The President doesn't do the driving. At the wheel of the latest excursions was either a Secret Service man or Nixon's Florida friend and neighbor, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Rebozo, who left Saturday after spending five days with Nixon at his oceanside estate, completed several years ago the driving course the Secret Service gives agents who drive the President's car.

After leaving the closely guarded compound, Nixon's car pulled onto nearby Interstate 5, a six-to-eight-lane freeway linking Los Angeles with San Diego.

The sedan, specially equipped with radio telephones but otherwise indistinguishable from other Lincoln Continentals, eventually ended up at "Red Beach," an isolated stretch of Pacific coastline usually used by Camp Pendleton's Marines to practice amphibious landings.

Before reaching the beach, the President usually spent an hour or more following a meandering route along the freeways, trailed closely by a station wagon loaded with Secret Service agents.

For the past three years, other cars containing a four-member news service reporter-photographer pool also followed the President's freeway excursions.

But during his current stay, White House aides have refused to inform newsmen in time for them to join the presidential entourage.

The White House won't give a reason for the change in procedure. But it comes amid growing indications that Nixon is unhappy about being followed everywhere by Secret Service men and reporters.

At his news conference Wednesday, the President said he had sought unsuccessfully to have his Secret Service detail cut by one-third, saying: "As far as protection generally is concerned, I don't like it, and my family does not like it."

Two days earlier, Nixon gave Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler a forceful shove when he found that newsmen were about to enter a New Orleans convention hall door reserved for the official party.

California banks face foreign competition book listings include the Bank of Tokyo, Sumitomo Bank of California, Hong Kong Bank of California, Bank of Montreal and California Canadian Bank.

The legislative battle has pitted the state's big banks, including the giant Bank of America, against the smaller independent banks.

The battle revolves around two bills designed to stem the growth of foreign banking in the state.

One measure would prohibit any new foreign banks from entering the California market unless their home countries gave California banks the same privileges. It is awaiting a first hearing in the Senate Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee.

A similar bill that has passed the Assembly and is before the Senate committee would prohibit the establishment in California of any more foreign banks that are affiliated with any commercial or industrial businesses.

The foreign banks have hired some high-priced law firms to fight the legislation.

The larger California banks with extensive foreign interests — primarily Bank of America and Wells Fargo Bank — also are fighting the bills. They argue that foreign firms are more likely to buy California products if they have home-country bank outlets here.

The larger banks also fear that countries in which they operate, especially Japan, will retaliate with similar restrictions.

But Michael Rafton, president and chairman of the Central Bank headquartered in Oakland, said foreign banks have an unfair advantage because they have a greater freedom to operate than do their domestic competitors. They are not covered, for instance, by a federal law that prohibits U.S. banks from engaging in non-banking activities such as industrial production.

Rafton said the foreign banks are able to offer lower-interest loans for such consumer goods as autos and television sets because they are "tied in with huge conglomerates that can shift funds around to undercut domestic interest rates. They can play in our ball park, but we can't play in theirs," he said.

Paper products in short supply

NEW YORK (AP) — Shortages of paper are causing increasing problems in the supply and availability of newspapers and such basic items as business forms, corrugated boxes, waxed paper and paper bags.

Much of the attention so far has focused on newspapers, some of which have run low on newsprint because of paper mill and railroad strikes in Canada. But increasingly tight situations also are being reported in a wide variety of other paper products.

A Los Angeles maker of bags and wrapping paper reports it is able to buy only 60 to 70 per cent of the paper it needs. A Bridgeport, Conn., grocery store says it is running out of paper bags. Gulf Oil Corp. says it finds suppliers are reluctant to bid on large orders of business forms.

In Washington, D.C., the General Services Administration reports that paper inventories are short millions of pounds.

An emergency procurement system based on national security priorities has been invoked "seven or eight times" in the recent past to supply paper to the Department of Defense, the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a GSA spokesman said.

The reasons cited for the paper shortages are many and complex. A principal consideration, observers say, is that new paper mills are costly and take two to four years to build. Several years ago, there was a glut of paper, prices were low and there was little incentive to build new plants.

Then came the business boom of the early 1970s, at the same time as governments were moving toward stricter pollution control. Industry officials say that over a billion dollars, or approximately one-half of all new capital investment, went into pollution control, cutting into funds for expansion.

Today, mills are reported working at full capacity. Yet industry officials say they have been hampered by such factors as economic controls, labor problems, bad weather in timber country, power cutbacks and a lack of investment capital.

"The return on investment has not been sufficient to attract a large amount of commitment to build new capacity," said Edwin A. Locke, president of the American Paper Institute.

Some critics contend that, faced with overproduction and low prices in the late 60s, the paper companies deliberately avoided developing new capacity to create a tight supply and thereby raise prices.

"People who make those statements don't have the facts at hand," said Ralph Michaud, a paper industry analyst with the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

Sixteen new mills should be constructed by 1975, the paper institute reports, but that may not be enough to stave off spot shortages, higher prices, less variety, and a substitution of lighter for heavier weights of paper.

"While average annual capacity growth for all grades of paper was 3.7 per cent between 1956 and 1972, our most recent survey shows a modest annual increase of 1.4 per cent from 1972 to 1975," said John F. Darrow, senior vice president of the institute.

Clean-air hearings under way

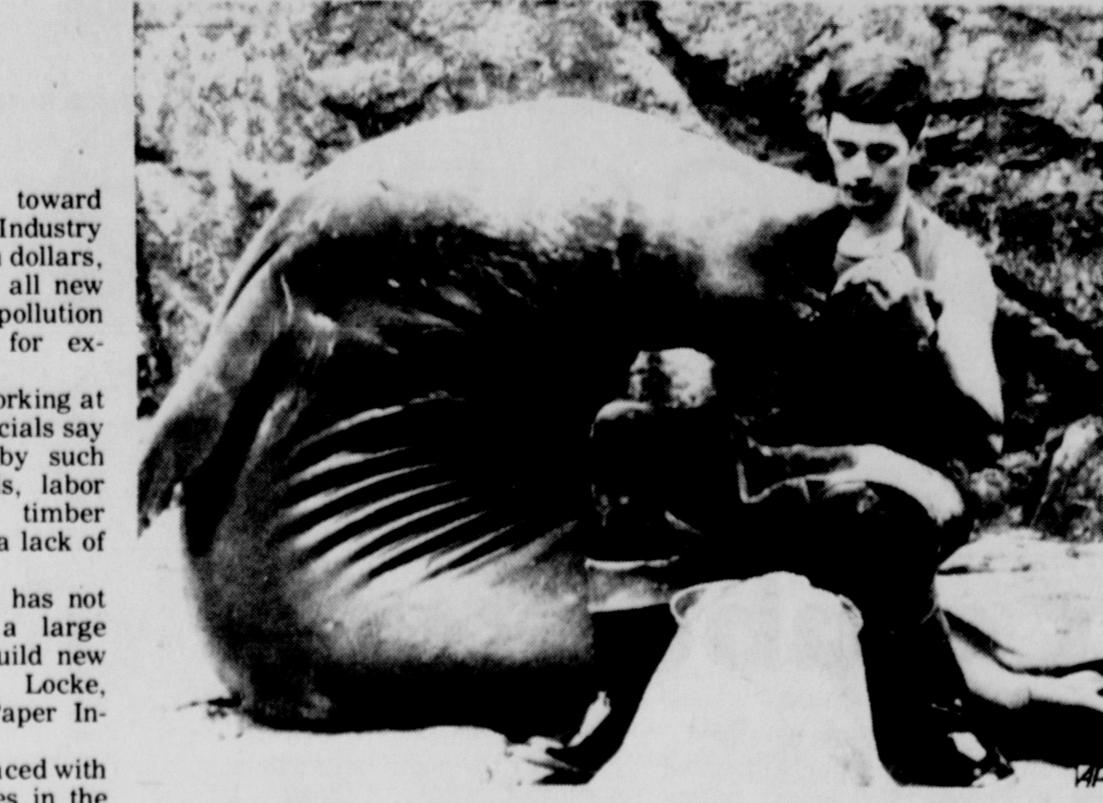

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency today was to start three days of hearings on proposed clean-air standards that could affect local economies throughout the nation.

The Congress and the courts have ordered EPA to ban significant new pollution of clean air and the agency is trying to define the point at which this level is reached.

The answer may determine whether new industries can move into a community and whether the community itself can be permitted to grow.

Under the Clean Air Act of 1970, EPA has set nationwide air quality standards to protect human health that must be met by 1975.

It also has set more stringent stan-

Nation's feminists demonstrate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Feminists staged demonstrations and fairs, conducted church services and honored their greats during "Equality Day" activities marking the 53rd anniversary of women's suffrage.

Seneca Falls, N.Y., site of the first women's rights convention 125 years ago, saw an elaborate ceremony Sunday to induct the first 20 members of the new Women's Hall of Fame.

"Great Guts" awards were presented in Los Angeles at a combined picnic, fair and demonstration sponsored by the National Organization for Women.

The awards honored women including Billie Jean King, the tennis star; Olga Connolly, the former Olympic athlete; Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., and singer Helen Reddy, who created something of a feminist anthem with her rendition of "I Am Woman."

In Washington, a women's fair continued in a park near the White House and a rally was set for today on the steps of the Capitol.

A Catholic feminist group demonstrated outside St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York to protest inclusion in the day's liturgy of a verse by St. Paul, Ephesians 5:22, saying: "Wives should be submissive to their husbands as if to the Lord."

Also in New York, a group called Lesbian Feminist Liberation converged on the American Museum of Natural History with a 20-foot long, lavender-painted "female" dinosaur made of paper-mache.

The day marked the signing Aug. 20, preventing significant deterioration of air quality.

The Sierra Club's immediate comment was another lawsuit, now pending, which charged that none of the EPA alternatives was strict enough.

EPA's first alternative was to set a national limit on the allowable increase in concentrations of sulphur dioxide and particulate matter (dust) in the air.

EPA's second alternative would set limits on emissions of sulphur dioxide and particulates from smokestacks.

The third alternative would let each state determine "significant air quality deterioration" on a case-by-case basis.

The fourth alternative would limit pollution concentrations in the air, as in the first alternative, but on a regional basis rather than national.

A U.S. District Court agreed and so did an appeals court. Then, by a 4 to 4 vote last June, the Supreme Court allowed the lower court decision to stand.

On July 16, EPA offered for public comment a choice of four plans for

House committees more open

A Common Cause survey shows a gratifying compliance with new House rules that committee sessions must be open to the public unless a majority votes for a closed session. There is a notable, and crucially important, exception to this generalization: secrecy, we are told in the survey report, "remains the rule of life in the powerhouse money committees that raise and expend federal dollars."

That condemnation applies with special force to the Ways and Means Committee. During the period of the survey, from the time the new rules were adopted on March 7 through

June 15, this vitally important committee held every one of its bill-drafting sessions on the President's foreign trade proposal.

The Appropriations Committee has a similar record. Its bill-drafting sessions, as well as those of 12 of its 13 subcommittees, were closed.

The yen for secrecy was strongly felt in a number of other committees, too. Agriculture had 21 open sessions but held 9 in secret; Armed Services opened its doors for 13 sessions, but closed them for 8. A few committees even failed to comply with the requirement of a majority vote to close the doors, simply going into secret session without a vote.

It should be said, though, that on the whole the record of the House is rather impressive in this early trial of the new open-meeting rules. The bulk of the bill-drafting sessions were open, and the amount of work accomplished was about the same as when there was no open-meeting requirement. Now if only this spirit could be extended to those aforementioned "powerhouse money committees," we would really be getting somewhere.

THESE DAYS. . . by John Chamberlain

Forgiveness followed by probation

WASHINGTON — Although I've been around for a bit, the Young Americans for Freedom were nice enough to ask me to serve as a host along with Dean Clarence Manion and General Thomas Lane on the evening of Senator Barry Goldwater's address to the seventh annual YAF National Convention. The YAFers, coming by the hundreds from all over the country, had practically taken over the Sheraton-Park Hotel for five days of seminars and politicking.

What was particularly inspiring to me about the gathering was the realization that the young conservatives and libertarians have a resurgent movement going at a time when the Students for a Democratic Society and other Leftist youth relics of the Sixties have been fading faster than the dollar on the Zurich exchange on the day before a devaluation.

The main portent for older Republicans in this YAF convention is that the young conservatives obviously hold other things than Watergate against the Nixon Administration. Sen. Barry Goldwater caught the mood of the gathering when he elaborated on his personal dilemma. In Barry's opinion Nixon, though he had not added anything to his previous declarations of innocence in his speech to the nation, had charity coming to him. It was time, so the YAFers' favorite Senator said, to pass on to some of the real problems that confront the republic. Watergate should not be allowed to obscure the mandate of the 1972 election. President Nixon had done good things. He had gotten those troops and POWs out of Southeast Asia and was on the way toward bringing the war to a somewhat honorable conclusion.

But at this point Barry Goldwater hit one savage note. Slashing out at Nixonomics, he said price controls had never worked and could not work. So Nixonomics, though the public may be confused on the point, is not going to carry out the anti-inflationary mandate of 1972 until it really tackles the monetary origins of our troubles.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you like to go to a zoo, the chances are that you are more intelligent than someone who doesn't. And you probably earn more money. A recent study found that almost three-fourths of the zoo-going public had a high school education or better. Less than half of the nonzoogoers did. The zoo buffs also had higher average incomes.

The request was repeated in later years, but the subsequent Hungarian governments were not really pressing the issue, probably because of the crown's religious connotations. It was given in 1001 A.D. by Pope Sylvester to Stephen, Hungary's first king, who later became a saint of the Catholic Church.

The crown, this country said, "was not removed by force from Hungary, but was surrendered to U.S. authorities for safekeeping and is being held in trust by them... (it) continues to be treated as property of a special status."

"Well, having served in that country I am satisfied that there is a Hungarian nation living in the Danube basin," Puhan said.

Another U.S. condition for the return of the crown was that relations between the two countries should improve substantially.

"They did improve, you may say substantially," Puhan said, and referred to several agreements signed between the two countries since Secretary of State William P. Rogers visited Budapest in 1972.

"I know there will be a blast from Hungarians living in this country and I understand the reasons. But let's face it: the crown is just not ours," Puhan said.

The "holy crown" was spirited out from Hungary, where it was kept in a chapel attached to the palace of Hungarian kings, when the Soviet army approached Budapest in 1944.

It was taken to Germany and delivered to American Army units for safekeeping. It is reported to be at Fort COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The prospect of tough bargaining on major bills makes Ohio House Speaker A. G. Lanicione think it could take three days to wrap up the 110th General Assembly.

Lanicione, who originally envisioned a single session, now predicts it might run today through Wednesday.

A controversial code of ethics bill for public officials could be a major stumbling block. Neither the House or Senate has shown any willingness to compromise on the measure, which calls for disclosure of sources of income of more than $500.

Lawmakers say one conflict centers on a Senate amendment exempting school board members, township trustees, village officials and city and county board or commission members earning less than $1,000 a year.

Other major bills still in conference committees include a measure to boost unemployment compensation and one to pay $593,466 in claims against the state.

The unemployment compensation bill would replace the consumer price index with the average statewide weekly wage as the indicator for annual adjustments in benefits beginning in 1975.

The sunry claims bill faces a stiff fight because of a provision to pay three former state senators $16,000 each for two years they didn't serve after losing their districts to reapportionment.

Woman discovers big snake in couch

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "It felt lumpy," said Mrs. Sandra Overton of suburban Silverton, Ohio, as she departed with a six-foot boa constrictor.

She made the discovery when she sat on a living room chair in her apartment. She picked up the cushion to investigate the "lump" and telephoned the authorities.

She said the former tenants said they lost their snake shortly before moving out five weeks ago.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Should mom tell kids she had to marry?

DEAR ABBY: What do you tell your children when they ask how long you have been married, and you are ashamed to tell them? When I was married I was three months pregnant. We had gone together for two years. We loved each other, and it just happened.

We were married as soon as possible, and now have five lovely children. The oldest is 14. My husband and I never celebrate our wedding anniversary. We just don't talk about it.

Lately, our 14-year-old asked us when our anniversary is. I said "in December" and changed the subject. I don't know how long I can go on doing this.

My husband says we should add on a year. Would this be right? Other people know how long we've been married, and I don't want my children to catch me in a lie when I preach them the importance of being honest. But Abby, I want my children to respect me, and if they knew the truth it may not set a good example for them. Please tell me what to do. Thank you.

A MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: I can best answer you by submitting this exchange:

DEAR ABBY: I was born six months and two days after my parents were married. (I figured it out when I was 16.) When I mentioned it to my mother she became flustered and close to tears so I never mentioned it again.

Mom and Dad are tops as parents, and I don't care if they did have to get married, I love them just the same.

Abby, you could help a lot of people who had to get married if you would tell them how to handle it when their children bring it up.

Should they lie about the date of their marriage? Or should they say the first baby was "premature"? What's the best answer?

THEIR DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: The truth, while sometimes embarrassing, is always the best answer. But no couple HAS to get married. The boy can run off and leave the girl to face the problem alone. Or he can deny paternity.

Some girls choose abortion. Others prefer to have the child, and put it up for adoption. Some have the child and keep it.

The couple who marries when a baby is on the way, and make a success of that marriage (and there are many) deserve respect and understanding.

DEAR ABBY: You stated that a couple could be married by a ship's captain. Whoops! Not any more. They used to be, when voyages lasted months and sometimes years, but times have changed, and so have the rules. Marriages performed by captains at sea will legalize a union while the couple is at sea, but when they reach land, they must be remarried.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE DEAR VOICE: Thanks. I am presently over my head in letters from readers who advise me of the change. Me culpa.

DEAR ABBY: Here is my solution for that artist who found it hard to paint outdoors (landscapes, etc.) because he always drew a crowd who watched him and sometimes made remarks which distracted him.

I also enjoy painting landscapes. I don't object to a few spectators, but when it gets too chatty, I simply remove my hat and pass it.

I rarely get more than a few coins, but it sure thins out the crowd in a hurry.

Wedding in Sabina Church is on Saturday

Miss Cheryl Snider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snider of Sabina, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vaiden Long, 741 High St., became the bride of Robert Andrew Cluxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cluxton of New Vienna, in the Sabina United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Robert P. Miller performed the double-ring candlelight ceremony Saturday before an altar centered with an open Bible flanked by arrangements of white pompons and gladioli.

Forming the background were goblets of white gladioli and pompons and two seven-branch candelabra with pillows of jade foliage and palms. The bridal aisle was lined with white bows and aisle cloth and lighted candles encircled with foliage which were placed in the church windows, completed the setting.

Arnold Appel, vocalist, and Mrs. Walter Stackhouse, organist, both of Sabina, presented a half-hour of wedding music.

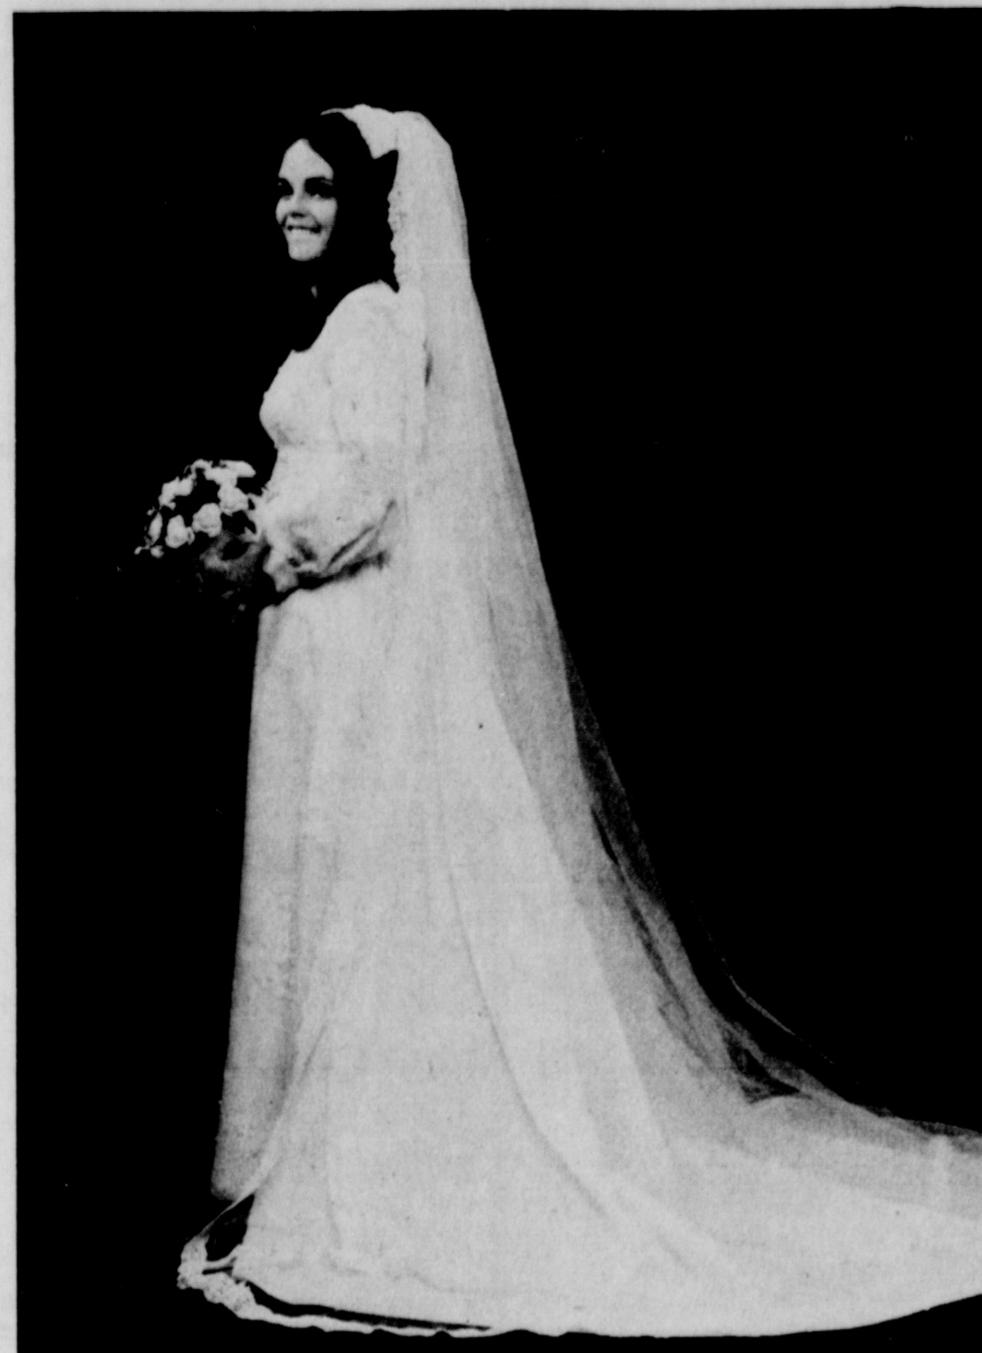

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride, was lovely in her chapel length gown of pur silk organza and Venice lace. Her empire styled bodice was designed with long sheer sleeves accented with an overlay of delicate beaded floral patterned lace. The same design trimmed the bodice and accented the A-line skirt. A detachable, circular cut train, edged in the same lace and topped with a butterfly bow, fell gracefully to a chapel-length.

She wore a cap of matching lace, trimmed with a lace-edged bouffant veil, also chapel length. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses, miniature white carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. Phillip Rolfe of Sabina, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Mongold of New Vienna, sister of the groom, Mrs. Terry Miracle of Hillsboro, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Sidney Charles of Washington C.H., and Miss Mary Beth Morris of Sabina, served as junior bridesmaids.

All of the attendants wore Nile green dotted Swiss gowns with taffeta underlay. White lace trimmed the long sleeves and accented the front and back of the bodice. They wore Nile green puffed veils and carried colonial bouquets of pale pink carnations with pink streamers. The matron of honor carried a colonial bouquet of pale pink carnations and pink roses with pink streamers.

William Cluxton of New Vienna, brother of the groom, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Robert Mongold of New Vienna, brother-in-law of the groom, Terry Miracle of Hillsboro, and Michael

MRS. ROBERT CLUXTON

Lanman of Leesburg, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Snider greeted the guests in an apricot formal length gown with a scroll design of champagne lace which trimmed the bodice and the cuffs of the long sheer sleeves. The skirt fell in soft accordian pleats. She had matching accessories and on her clutch purse was a corsage of Nile green cymbidium orchids.

The groom's mother wore a formal length gown of pale blue polyester knit. The sleeveless bodice had a jewel neckline and the skirt was A-styling. She wore matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of pink cymbidium orchids. The grandmothers wore white carnation corsages with Nile green ribbon.

Hostesses for the reception held in the lower room of the church were Mrs. James Morris of Sabina, senior hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. Edward Eyre of Hillsboro, Mrs. Robert Lanman of Sabina, cousins of the bride, Mrs. Danny Wilson of Columbus, and Mrs. Carol Hubbell of Sabina. Mrs. John Waddle of Columbus, another cousin, presided at the guest book. They all wore white carnations with Nile green ribbon.

The bride's table was centered with a five tiered wedding cake topped with white wedding bells and doves, and encircled with leather leaf and pink carnations.

An arrangement of pink carnations and white chrysanthemum blossoms graced the serving table. On either side of the silver punch bowl were candelabra with pink candles. Wedding bell mints and nuts in silver containers completed the table setting.

The new Mrs. Cluxton attended Eastern Kentucky University and is employed at the City Loan in Washington C. H. Her husband attended Wilmington College and has served in the U.S. Army. He is employed at Valley Steel Company in Clarksville.

For her going away costume, the bride chose a double knit dress with jewel neckline and gored skirt. The bodice and long fitted sleeves were yellow and green floral print and the yoke and skirt were forest green. She had matching accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Sabina.

Mr. and Mrs. Cluxton, the groom's parents, were hosts at the Terrace Lounge at dinner following rehearsal on Friday evening. Those attending were the Rev. and Mrs. Robert P. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Appel, Mrs. Walter Stackhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Miracle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mongold, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Charles, Mrs. Phillip Rolfe, Miss Mary Beth Morris, Michael Lanman, William Cluxton and Miss Robyn Brunn.

Former resident weds in Englewood Methodist Church

Englewood United Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Donna Lee Sterrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Sterrett, formerly of Worthington Rd., now of Sugar Loaf Village, Mich., and William D. Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Alexander of Englewood.

The Rev. George Sidwell and Rev. Gerald Wheat officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Hurricane aisle tapers decorated in rainbow colors of flowers and greenery made the background with an altar bouquet of rainbow colored flowers.

A prelude of wedding music was presented by Jim Long, organist, and Sharon Myhre, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory organza. The bodice was accented by a high neck and sheer yoke. A controlled A-line skirt fell from the fitted empire waistline ending in a detachable, cathedral-length train. The sheer fitted sleeves ended in soft bridal points. The entire gown and train was highlighted by beaded Alencon lace. She wore a camelot of matching lace which held a long veil and blusher of ivory illusion. She carried a colonial nosegay of bridal pink roses, white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Nancy Sterrett of Cadillac, Mich., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Linda Dixon, and junior bridesmaids, Diana Sterrett, sister of the bride, and Melissa Alexander, sister of the groom. Mrs. Thomas Lykins, sister of the groom, was the bridesmatron.

All of the attendants wore crepe gowns of rainbow pastel colors of pink, orchid, blue, yellow and green. The split necklines on the gowns were edged with white Venice lace trim, which also was on the cuffs. They wore custom made headpieces of matching lilies and illusion. They, too, carried colonial nosegays of multi-colored flowers, baby's breath with ribbons to match their gowns.

Steve Pierce served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Tom Lykins, Eric Watrous, Doug Sterrett and Dale Sterrett, brothers of the bride.

The bride's mother chose a deep pink chiffon formal length gown for her daughter's wedding. The bodice and sleeves were of lace, and a bow of chiffon accented the high waistline and V-neckline, and full skirt. The bridegroom's mother wore a mint green double knit formal length gown with long sleeves and high neckline trimmed with lace. Both mothers wore

Charge for phone assistance planned by Cincinnati Bell

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati Bell said Sunday it believes it is one of the first telephone companies in the United States to receive permission to charge for directory assistance.

The firm plans to begin the charge sometime "in early 1974 when equipment is modified to handle it," a spokesman said Sunday.

Permission came Friday night from the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

3 drownings are reported

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Authorities recovered the body of an eight-year-old Ohio youth from the Ohio River at River Downs Sunday and the body of a Cincinnati man was recovered in another drowning incident.

The youth, identified as Timmy Womack of Piqua, Ohio, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hulon Womack, who were residing at the River Downs Race Track in the barn area.

He was swimming with friends when he wandered away Saturday evening and went under.

The body of a Cincinnati man, David Reynolds, 36, was found Sunday in a swimming pool at Camp Marydale on Donaldson Road in Boone County, Ky. Officials said Reynolds had been missing since Saturday afternoon. He was with a group of 175 persons with the Hamilton County Council for Retarded Children. Dragging operations were being conducted for the body of a Newport, Ky., man who apparently drowned about 2 a.m. Sunday when he slipped off a cruiser in the Ohio River.

The victim was identified as Vic Rakosi, about 42. Officials said he was walking on the 26-foot cruiser when he slipped and fell into the river. Three friends who accompanied him on the boat were unable to rescue him.

The accident occurred about 100 yards from the Harrison Boat Harbor near Dayton, Ky. Rakosi was a mechanic for an automobile dealer in Covington.

as part of a $14.1 million rate hike package.

The rate increase went into effect Saturday. Home customers' bills will rise from $6.80 to $8.15 while commercial rates were hiked from $19 to $22.40 monthly.

The company said half the increases "will go for state and federal taxes."

Cincinnati Bell will allow each customer three, free directory assistance calls per month once the charges start. Each call after that will be 20 cents.

It will be 40 cents if the customer dials "O" for operator and is switched to directory assistance "because it involves two operators."

W. J. Whittaker said the firm sought the charges because 22 percent of the customers are responsible for 87 percent of such calls.

He said it was "unfair" to spread the cost of these calls to the rates charged other customers.

Cincinnati Bell did not report the cost of the calls now nor the amount of revenue expected once the charges begin.

There will be no charge for directory assistance calls from pay telephones or for people calling into the Cincinnati exchange from other areas.

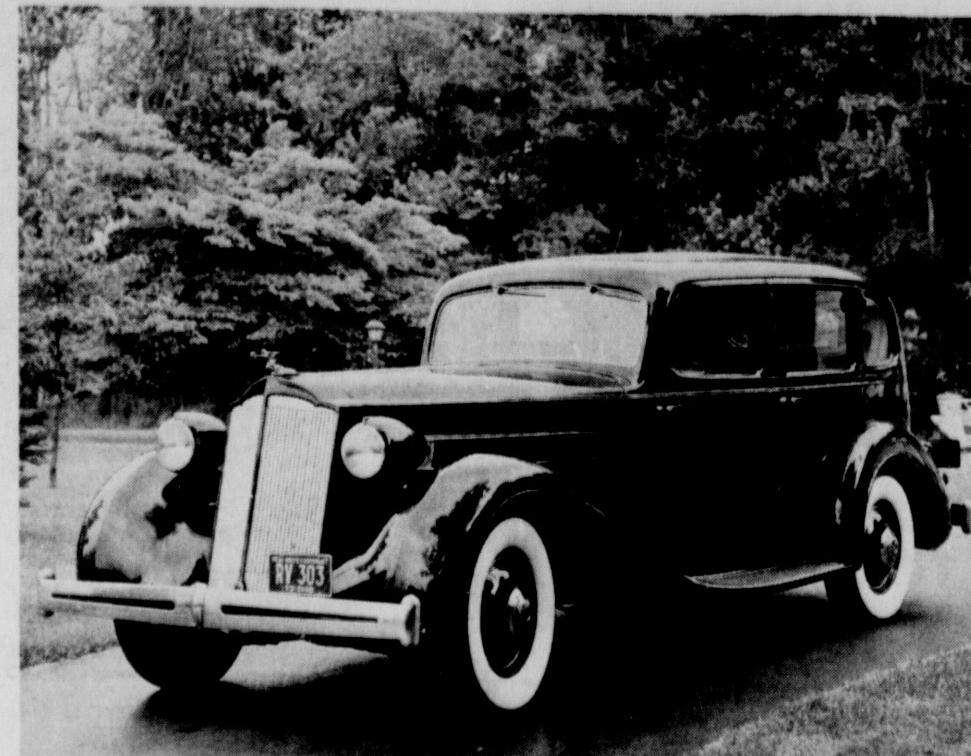

Also exempt will be hotel and hospital lines and persons unable to use a directory because of a physical disability.

These persons must be certified to the company by a physician, however, the spokesman said.

Kentucky man drowns after fall from barge

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jimmy David Suiter, 26, of Mayfield, Ky., drowned near here Sunday night in the Ohio River, the Adams County, Ohio, sheriff's department reported.

Suiter, a member of the crew of a two barge, was working on a tow barge, was working on a running light when he slipped and fell into the water, authorities said. His body was recovered from the river about five hours later.

AUTO SHOW SET — This elegant antique Packard, owned by Emile A. Legros Jr., will be on display at the first annual Cedar Point Antique Car Show and Swap Meet Sept. 7-9. The Commodore Perry Antique Car Club will host the event.

Motorcyclist deaths rise

Ohio Highway Safety Director Eugene P. O'Grady has expressed alarm over the 21 percent rise in motorcyclist deaths in Ohio over the past two months.

Reviewing Highway Safety Department statistics, O'Grady points out that in the first six-month period this year 66 motorcyclists died on Ohio's highways compared to 42 motorcycle deaths for the same period in 1972.

July's motorcycle traffic deaths took a steep climb with 24 recorded, which represented 11 percent of the total highway traffic deaths. Motorcycle deaths recorded in July of 1972 represented only 7 percent of the total July deaths. The total motorcycle deaths in the first seven months of 1972 was 56 compared to 90 for the first seven months of 1973.

Alarming statistics were recorded during the first half of August with 14 motorcyclists killed out of the first 67 reported traffic fatalities. This represents 21 percent of the total traffic deaths occurring," O'Grady said.

Motorcycle registration has increased over the past five years from 94,862 to 153,547 vehicles licensed, according to records of the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Director O'Grady points out several causes for the rise in motorcycle traffic crashes:

The motorists fail to see the smaller vehicle resulting in crashes involving failure to yield the right of way, improper turning, improper passing, and driving left to center. These actions occur when the motorists fail to register the image of the two-wheeled vehicle as a part of the passenger car and truck traffic flow.

Motorcyclists kill and injure themselves through inability to properly handle their vehicles and not observing the traffic laws. The number of single vehicle crashes involving motorcycles indicates that improper speed or lack of experience in controlling the vehicle is probable cause for the crashes.

Acting director named for Lucasville Prison

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The acting superintendent who took over at the prison here last Wednesday told representatives of three guard unions Friday he would establish an advisory committee of officers to work with supervisors.

Bernard Barton was appointed by the department of correction and rehabilitation last week after W. J. Whealon resigned following nearly a year as warden at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility containing almost 1,000 inmates. The prison opened last September.

Since that time, the atmosphere has been tense including the shooting deaths of two guards in July.

Barton outlined the plan to the unions and said:

"Two officers will be posted in cell blocks where there is inmate movement."

Selected officers will be given disturbance control training.

Guards will be issued cigarette package-size alarm devices.

Guard control centers in each cell block will be enclosed in steel and bullet-proof glass.

Barton said those guards who participated in a recent work stoppage would be disciplined and not negotiated with.

'Missing' family located

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—A nationwide search for a Toledo, Ohio, family ended on a forest service road here Sunday when Washington State Patrol officer located the Lawrence Zmudzinski family, the patrol said.

Trooper Bob Peterson located the family and their 12-year-old son Larry at a campsite 14 miles west of Wenatchee after a state highway department employee recognized the Ohio license plate of their 1964 Cadillac.

Highway employee Don McKenzie had read a description of the car in a newspaper article, the patrol said.

The family left Toledo in June for Washington in their car which was equipped with a two-way radio. But Toledo relatives last heard from them in a post card from Mellen, Wis., postmarked July 4.

Subsequently, police launched a 10-day air and ground search when citizen band radio operators picked up transmissions from a boy saying he was trapped in an overturned pickup and his father was dead.

However, no trace of the boy was found and authorities have not ruled out the possibility it was a hoax.

The family voluntarily went into Wenatchee to talk to Chelan County sheriff Dick Nickells and state patrol authorities, the patrol said.

They have returned to their campsite. The patrol said the batteries in the families citizens band radio were dead and had been dead for some time.

Interest rates confuse investment outlook

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The record rise of interest rates this year has presented investors with a new and complex set of financial decisions.

Effective yields of 8, 9 and 10 per cent and sometimes higher dangle seductively these days before practically everybody with money in the stock market, or even the standard 5 1/4 per cent savings account.

But the investor has to answer some fundamental questions for himself before making a choice.

Take a hypothetical individual with a family, some money in growth stocks, and $20,000 in his passbook savings account.

He is pretty well informed on the basic workings of the stock market. He believes firmly in maintaining the $20,000 in savings as a cash reserve — in a safe and readily accessible place where it will be available for emergencies.

He's also keenly aware of inflation, and the toll it is taking on the purchasing power of the $20,000.

But, most likely, he's less familiar with the credit markets.

"Analysts say that the inverse yield curve current in the present market makes short-term fixed-income securities particularly attractive to cookie-jar savers," he reads in a

Big damage suit hits state union

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Council 21, AFL-CIO, filed Friday a more than $1 million suit against the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association.

The action in Franklin County Common Pleas Court contended that a former state employee union director, along with the union's former president, conspired with the association's executive director "to seek and obtain confidential data, information and records of AFSCME."

The suit claimed that the meetings took place in January.

Cub pack awarded litter drive cash

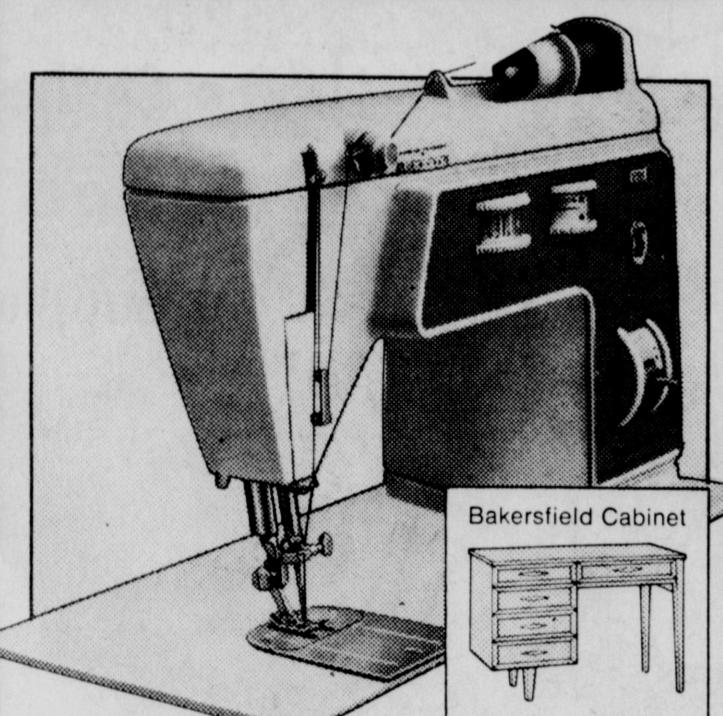

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Cub Scout Pack 570 of Columbus won a $250 national award for a three-month anti-litter drive.

The group won its second consecutive citation for collecting 15,485 pounds of paper and 1,875 pounds of glass, planting trees and distributing litter bags to motorists.

The pack was one of 14 Boy and Girl Scout units in 11 states to be recognized in the annual Owens-Illinois Inc. environmental awards program.

newspaper financial story. "Such instruments as Treasury bills, commercial paper, agency issues, municipal notes and even corporate bonds are receiving increased attention."

At about that point, slightly mystified, he calls a broker at random — say, Henry Arbeeny, a fixed-income securities specialist at Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

There are many possible approaches, says Arbeeny. Do you want a short-term or a long-term investment? Does your tax bracket suggest taxable or tax-exempt income?

"The menu is large and confusing," he says. "Even some brokers haven't figured it all out."

One obviously attractive new opportunity comes in the up to 8 per cent returns offered by many banks on federally insured four-year deposits in a safe and readily accessible place where it will be available for emergencies.

It's also keenly aware of inflation, and the toll it is taking on the purchasing power of the $20,000.

But, most likely, he's less familiar with the credit markets.

"Analysts say that the inverse yield curve current in the present market makes short-term fixed-income securities particularly attractive to cookie-jar savers," he reads in a

Additionaly they reduce the accessibility of the money. If the money has to be withdrawn for an emergency before the four years have passed, the depositor's interest for the entire period of the deposit drops to the passbook level, and he is further penalized three months' interest.

Other fixed-income investments can also have their drawbacks, Arbeeny says — the trick is to have a clear definition of one's needs, and then to fit the investment to them.

For those in the 30 per cent income tax bracket and higher, he says, tax-exempt municipal bonds and notes represent the best potential return. Those under the 30 per cent bracket are likely to find their best return in taxable issues, with their higher pretax yields.

Long term or short? Long terms offer the alluring prospect of catching interest rates at a high and riding them well into the future, when rates may be much lower.

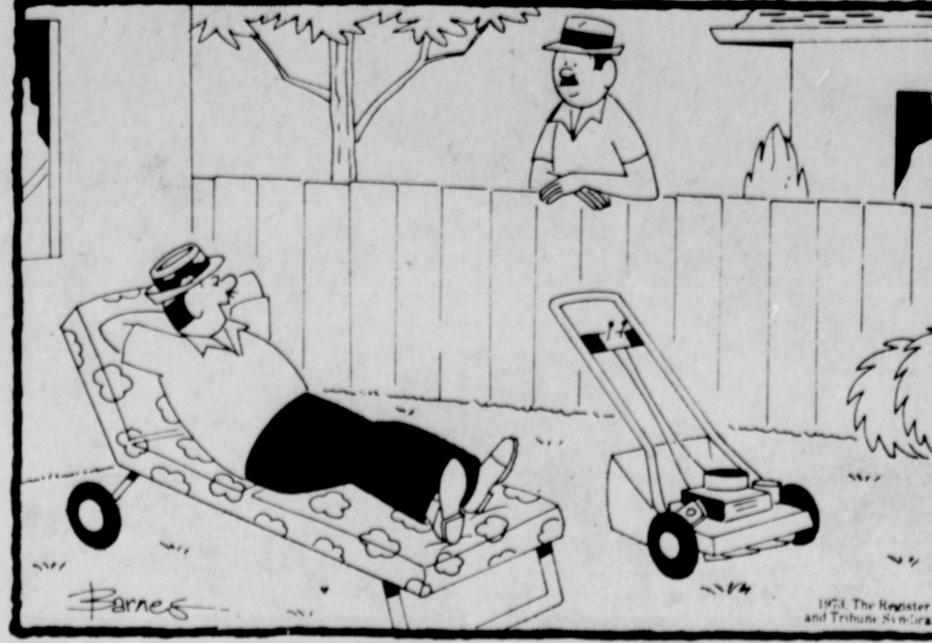

But, Arbeeny points out, the holder of a long-term security can suffer should he want or need to get his money out of it before it matures if the security's price has fallen since he bought it.

"If, at the time he invests, the investor is thinking that he may have to withdraw the money for some reason, he's far better off to stay with short terms," the broker observes.

The disadvantage of short-term securities, on the other hand, is that, even if bought at a time when interest rates are at a peak, they provide that high rate only for the few months before they mature. If rates come down in the meantime, the investor finds himself with money to invest and no further access to the peak rates prevailing earlier.

Telephone pact eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The General Telephone Co. of Ohio was expected to respond today to a revised contract proposal presented by striking communication workers Friday, a company spokesman said Sunday.

Company spokesman Don Detweiler said company officials had been studying the new proposal over the weekend and would probably give the Communication Workers of America some reply during today's negotiation session.

Federal mediator Howard Hughes and union Vice President Martin Hughes refused to reveal details of the new contract proposal Friday. The union leader, however, indicated that the length of the proposal and the wage request were changed.

The wage dispute began July 16 when 2,800 employees walked off their jobs. The union was asking for a 10 per cent wage hike. The firm offered 7 per cent.

Spokesmen for General Telephone say the company has suffered $1 million in damages and loss of revenue since the strike started.

Average farm prices have declined or remained unchanged in 10 of the past 20 years.

Large crowd attends midget auto program

A large crowd attended the special midget car race program held Saturday night at the Fayette County Fairgrounds track.

The grandstands were nearly filled for the five-race program, sponsored by Raceway Promotions, of Washington C.H., and sanctioned by the Buckeye Auto Racing Association.

No injuries were reported following two crashes, one in the opening trophy dash and one in the second eight-lap heat. Some of the fence circling the race track was damaged and a light pole was also broken.

The five-race program attracted a total of 23 entries and Jack Calabrase, of Lansing, Mich., captured the 25-lap feature race. Calabrase, driving a Chevy II owned by Bill Baldwin of Cedarville, won the feature after a struggle with Denny Lott, of Akron.

Washington C.H. area drivers fared well in Saturday's competition. Gary Ivers, of Washington C.H., finished second in the opening four-lap trophy dash, Washington C.H.'s Ralph Coil was second in the third heat.

Here are the results:

In pre-season scrimmages

MT clouts Shermans; Dragons down Lions

Fayette County's high school football teams opened their pre-season interscholastic scrimmage schedules on contrasting notes Saturday morning.

Miami Trace's Panthers employed a successful passing offense in whipping future South Central League member Unioto 4-1, while Washington C.H. was not at all pleased with its aerial attack in a 5-3 loss to a rugged Kettering Fairmont West team.

FRED ZECHMAN, new head football coach at Miami Trace, indicated that he was pleasantly surprised with the Panthers' passing offense, but noted disappointment in the rushing attack.

Unioto, under the direction of head coach Joe McFadden, flashed a strong defense against Miami Trace's running attack, but the Panthers managed to stack up 398 total offensive yards.

Junior halfback Tom Pfaff hit paydirt three times in the scrimmage against the Shermans. Pfaff was on the scoring end of two touchdown strikes from junior quarterback Tom Riley and also hit paydirt on an 83-yard run.

Jay Mossbarger set the stage for both of the Riley-to-Pfaff touchdowns with a pair of 40-yard receptions.

Miami Trace's other touchdown came when senior David Holbrook grabbed a 28-yard pass from Riley.

The Shermans scored their only touchdown of the scrimmage contest on a 33-yard pass play.

The fine faking of fullback Doug Ford and the performance of Riley gained praises from Zechman. The Miami Trace mentor was also pleased with the showings of defensive backs Jeff Ruth and Kent Smith.

Jeff Long, a senior tackle, emerged as the Panthers' top defensive player, while Mossbarger also turned in a fine performance from his defensive tackle spot.

Zechman said he plans to emphasize the running game when the Panthers travel to Jackson Wednesday for their second scrimmage contest of the season.

Washington C.H. clashed with an exceptionally big and quick Fairmont West team. Dick Hoppe, Fairmont West's head coach, termed the 1973 Dragon version as the best he's had in his term at the Kettering high school.

Head coach Maurice Pfeifer expressed disappointment with the Blue Lions' interior line, but was pleased with Washington C.H.'s goal line offense and defense. All three of Washington C.H.'s touchdowns were from inside the 10-yard line.

THE LIONS, perhaps a bit jittery, were sharp defensively in the first half when they zipped to a 3-2 lead at intermission and displayed sharp blocking techniques in the second half.

All 44 of the Blue Lion gridsters dressed played at least two quarters, and Pfeifer was pleased with the showings of Steve Mosley on defensive and Larry Dumford at the fullback and middle linebacker positions.

Fairmont West hurt Washington C.H. primarily through the middle with trap and option plays, and scored once on a pass interception.

The Fairmont West quarterback suffered a fractured ankle on the fifth play of the scrimmage and will probably be sidelined for the season. The Lions emerged without any injuries.

The Washington C.H. booster club ticket drive will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday and the annual meet the team session will be held Saturday night at Gardner Park Stadium. Admission is a bar of soap.

Schroeder and Greene golf winners

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Last winter, Bert Greene was in a hospital in northern California with a gunshot wound in his right foot. Down the coast in La Jolla, John Schroeder had his left hand in a cast and was wondering if his brief career was over.

Both capped their comebacks Sunday with companion victories in pro golf's only doubleheader — Schroeder sweeping through a sparkling field of stars to the Match Play championship and Greene outlasting veteran Miller Barber in a five-hole sudden death playoff for the title in the L&M Open.

It was the first American victory for each, and they joined Hawaiian Open champion John Schlee as the only first-time winners on the pro tour this season.

"This is one of the greatest days — certainly the luckiest day — of my life," said Greene, a lean, 29-year-old veteran of seven years on the tour.

Greene's career appeared to be in danger last year when he accidentally shot himself in the foot. He had a pistol in his golf bag and the gun discharged while he was loading the bag in the car.

He picked up $20,000 from the total purse of $100,000 after dropping a six-foot birdie putt on the fifth extra hole. He and Barber had finished the regulation 72 holes tied at 278 — six-under par on the 6,786-yard MacGregor Downs Country Club course.

The match play was on the same course, with the 27-year-old Schroeder beating graying veteran DeWitt Weaver 2-up in the final after disposing of Lee Trevino 1-up with a birdie on the 18th hole of the morning semifinals.

Morgan matches mark with homer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is the Joe Morgan doll. Wind it up and watch it go.

The diminutive Cincinnati second baseman was all wound up Sunday and as a result, tied a major league record with a home run.

"That's the one I wanted," said Morgan, after his two-run homer helped the Reds beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1.

Morgan thus became the third player in baseball history to hit at least 20 homers and steal 50 bases in a single season. He has 55 steals so far this year.

Sharing the record with him are Houston's Cesar Cedeno and St. Louis' Lou Brock, who stole his 50th base of this season Sunday for another mark of distinction. Brock set a record of nine straight seasons of 50 or more steals, breaking Ty Cobb's record of eight.

Morgan's homer in the seventh inning helped the Reds break open a tight game. Fred Norman, the Cincinnati starter, won his 11th contest.

In the National League's other games, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3; the San Francisco Giants edged the New York Mets 5-4; the San Diego Padres downed the Montreal Expos 4-2; the Atlanta Braves turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-6, and the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Houston Astros 4-2.

Dodgers 7, Phillies 3

Joe Ferguson and Ron Cey blasted home runs and Steve Garvey knocked in two runs with sacrifice flies, giving Los Angeles a 7-3 decision over Philadelphia.

The victory gave the Dodgers a sweep of their three-game series in Philadelphia and kept them four games ahead of Cincinnati in the National League West.

"He has no part of this club as far as I'm concerned," said Anderson.

Tolan was the National League's Comeback Player of the Year last season. He hit .283 and stole 42 bases.

When a doorman informed Tolan he was not to enter the pressbox, he responded, "you tell management they can come and get me."

Reds' President Bob Howsam and his assistant, Dick Wagner, appeared in the pressbox, but neither approached Tolan, who viewed the game from a front row seat.

"He has his own ideas. It's his business," said Bench. "We didn't have a letdown after losing Dave Concepcion and there won't be one now."

"I'm sure he's very frustrated. I know how it is. I've been there myself," said Bench.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most television weather reports try to give viewers a down-to-earth idea of what's blowing in the wind. But one TV report sets its sights far higher. It's aimed at private pilots.

It's called "Aviation Weather" and is broadcast live Thursday and Friday nights, primarily for weekend fliers. Right now it's only seen on about 20 public TV stations in seven East Coast states.

But the Federal Aviation Administration says it wishes the show were nationally broadcast to help reduce weather-related flying accidents. The FAA says such accidents caused approximately one-third of the 600 general aviation fatalities in the U.S. last year.

"Aviation Weather," produced by the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, is the brainchild of Vic Turner, a 34-year-old private pilot and an engineer at the center, located in Owings Mill, Md.

"It was something pilots have needed for a long time," said Turner, who got the show on the air in June 1972.

He said the problem for many private pilots is that most weather information facilities for fliers are based at large airports where heavy airline use discourages light plane traffic.

Private pilots seeking detailed weather reports either have to get them in person at the airports or phone for them, Turner said. He said during bad weather the phones are usually jammed with requests.

Turner did the "Aviation Weather" report, with FAA and National Weather Service observation and help, during the show's early days.

The program since has been assigned an official FAA weather brief, Jan Almsman. He handles all on-camera chores, backed by an FAA-supplied weather wire and a facsimile machine on which the agency's weather maps for pilots are transmitted.

Turner said the show doesn't restrict its reports to the Eastern Seaboard. "We give the entire country. We don't hit the West Coast as hard as we should, but it's there. If you're flying there, you'll know what weather you're going into."

The program appears twice on Thursday and Friday evenings. The first show lasts 30 minutes, divided into weather information and pilot education segments. It starts at 7:30 p.m. The next show, devoted entirely to weather, starts at 11 p.m. and runs 15 minutes.

All the forecasts include detailed visual illustrations of weather patterns and estimates of significant weather developments expected from 12 to 48 hours after each show.

Officials at the center say that on Oct. 4 the late show will be dropped and the early show begin at 7 p.m. They also say it may start appearing on some public TV stations in the South in October if arrangements can be made.

Sheriff's log notes increase in activities during July

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department has released its log of activities for July, and it shows a considerable increase in work load over the previous two years.

The department is up slightly in the number of major crimes (burglary, larceny, robbery, auto theft, and sex offenses) while the number of persons injured in traffic accidents substantially decreased. Significant increases were shown in the number of lesser complaints and the amount of paperwork.

The number of complaints received was up 40 per cent from July of 1971, and there were almost twice as many civil papers served last month than were served in July of 1971 or 1972. The increase in civil papers (warrants, summons and subpoenas) was largely due to a heavy court docket in July.

Running away from home seems to be more fashionable now. The department was notified of eight missing persons last month, compared with one each the last two years. Most of the missing persons were juveniles.

The following is a breakdown of the department's activities during the month, followed by the 1972 totals for the same time period:

Complaints received, 494 (412); accidents investigated, 64 (62); injuries from accidents, 23 (35); fatal accidents, none (3); bad checks, 1 (2); auto thefts, 3 (1); stolen autos recovered, 4 (1); assaults, 2 (0); burglaries, 8 (5); larcenies, 26 (20); sex offenses, 1 (1); robberies, none (2); destruction of property, 5 (13); dumping of trash, 3 (0); missing persons reported, 8 (1); dog and other animal attacks, 13 (12); fires reported, 6 (2); funeral escorts, 13 (8); citations issued and incarcerations, 60 (72); civil papers processed, 81 (43); special duties (performing job related functions during time off), 20 (11).

Religious rock festival successful

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP) — What was billed as a drugless, boozeless rock festival ended that way Sunday night, without a single incident reported by the police.

"Rock of Ages 73" concluded at the Shelby County fair grounds here with a crowd of 6,500 on hand. "Tremendous," was the way Sgt. Earl Staley of the Sidney police department described the crowd.

"They went out of their way to cooperate," said Sgt. James Thompson of the Shelby County sheriff's department.

The total attendance for the three-day affair was estimated at 17,000, including persons from 39 states, Puerto Rico and nine foreign countries.

They were mostly young, but included a sprinkling of older persons. More than 30 musical groups from around the nation performed at the festival.

The event ended with an address by Dr. Victor P. Wierville, president and founder of "The Ways" a religious organization which sponsored the event.

Emergency squad takes top honors

OMAHA, Nebraska (AP) — The Dublin, Ohio, emergency squad team took first place honors at the International Rescue and First Aid Association conference competition here this week.

Newark's squad ranked fifth, the Columbus team was 10th and Upper Arlington came in 13th.

The competing squads were given three emergencies to respond to, and were judged on speed and efficiency.

Ohio perspective

Expect flood of vet job-seekers

By H.G. CZERNIEJEWSKI
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Veterans' representatives are bracing themselves for a boom in the number of disabled Ohio vets looking for jobs.

"Earlier, it was just a dribble of men being released from hospitals," said Victor W. Smith, representative for Veterans Employment Services in Ohio.

Jobs were found for 1,266 of 6,715 handicapped Vietnam era veterans who applied for jobs in fiscal 1973, Smith said.

"The handicapped problem was a big one, now it is emphasized even more," he said.

The Veterans Administration predicts about 12,800 disabled vets, expected to be released from hospitals in the next year will apply for jobs in Ohio in fiscal 1974.

So Smith's office is launching a "Hire the Handicapped Vet Week" for Oct. 7-13. "Give him a right to bare arms" is the slogan.

Smith admitted his job won't be easy.

The nature of the veteran's disability, naturally, limits the kind of job he can do.

Jerry Caplan (not his real name) has B.A. in mathematics. A veteran of Vietnam, Jerry became neurotic and extremely introverted.

"We had to set up the interviews and practically lead him by the hand to them. He just wouldn't talk to people," said John Marshall, a veterans representative in Columbus.

Jerry is now employed in the testing division of a Goodwill office.

Sometimes the job has to be modified.

Kyle Jeffers (also a pseudonym) is blind. He had to develop a keen memory to get a job as a dispatcher. His employer put in a tape recorder so Kyle wouldn't have to keep written records of dispatches.

Smith said there is a moral obligation to hire a handicapped veteran. "But it's also good business practice," he said.

"Absenteeism is way below the average worker. They take their jobs very seriously. If they lose that job, they know they are going to have a hard time of it," he said.

But despite the stepped-up move to get jobs for handicapped, Smith emphasized, "We haven't and we won't shut the door on other veterans looking for jobs."

Sewer plant bids exceed cost estimate

CIRCLEVILLE — Plans for a new sewage treatment plant at Circleville were given a $2 million jolt from inflation when bids for its construction were opened.

Only two bids were received and both were far above the estimate. The low bid by Wanner, Inc., of Worthington, was $6,770,000 and the other by Bay Construction was $7,195,000.

Charles Taylor, director of public utilities, commented "we'll have to take a hard look at the bids before reaching a decision but it looks like we will have to have the job rebid."

The problem is compounded by the new sewer rates which are based on construction costs estimated at only $4,719,000 for a treatment plant.

Total funding for the treatment plant, 48-inch interceptor line to replace the lift station at Ted Lewis Park and the new line needed from the park to the plant site is $6,736,000. The cost of the interceptor line is estimated at over $900,000. Cost of the line from the park to the plant site is estimated at over $500,000.

Of the total funding, $5,052,675 is an actual government grant while $1,683,325 must be repaid by the city.

The bids did not include construction of the two sewer lines since they have not been approved by Environmental Protection Agency authorities yet.

15 face charges in weekend incidents

The Washington Police Department arrested 15 persons over the weekend for a variety of offenses. Those arrested face a total of 25 charges including intoxication, resisting arrest, assaulting an officer, possession of marijuana, and selling alcoholic beverage to an intoxicated person.

Two of the 16, David Lee Haven and Ronnie Stone, are charged with five and four violations respectively. In addition to those arrested, a total of 11 juveniles were picked up for curfew violations and were released to their parents.

Haven, 23, of 425 Second St., was arrested early Saturday morning after a patrolman was dispatched to a Peabody Avenue address to investigate a complaint. Patrolman Mike Stritenberger attempted to arrest Haven for intoxication, but the subject became rowdy, resisted, arrest, and finally assaulted Stritenberger, according to police. After a short scuffle, the patrolman, who received hand lacerations and a dislocated thumb, was able to handcuff Haven and take him to jail.

About two hours later, Haven asked to use the telephone. He was taken from the jail so that he could make a call. At that time he struck patrolman William Robinson with the telephone receiver and attempted to flee. Injuries resulting from the struggle that ensued required that Haven be hospitalized. He has been charged with intoxication, two counts of resisting arrest, and two counts of assaulting a police officer.

Ronnie Stone, 18, of 433 E. Elm St., was arrested early Sunday morning at the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot for disturbing the peace and having an open container of intoxicating liquor in a public place. At the time he allegedly threatened the officers at the scene and resisted arrest. Charges of making menacing threats and resisting arrest were also filed by the department.

Edgar C. (Clay) Snyder, 45, of 147 S. Fayette St., a bartender at the Dublin Bar, was arrested for selling an alcoholic beverage to an intoxicated person. Arrested at the same time was Robert Russell, 48, of 13 Central Place, for intoxication.

A 17-year-old city youth was arrested early Sunday morning and charged with possession of marijuana. He was observed at the Washington Square parking lot and was arrested a short time later as he drove on Columbus Avenue.

Also Sunday morning, Joseph Bryant, 32, of 624 Rawlings St., who had been involved in a domestic quarrel, was arrested for disturbing the peace. He too resisted arrest and was so charged.

Others arrested over the weekend at the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot on alcohol-related charges were Edwin E. Marriam, Michael E. Bennett, Larry E. Manns, David K. Reynolds, Kevin A. Jones, Ricky L. Curnutt, Timothy G. Merritt, Ricky V. Southworth, and Barbara J. Burkett.

Weekend crashes injure 3 persons

Two traffic accidents over the weekend resulted in injuries to three persons, one of whom remains hospitalized. One person was hurt in a three-vehicle collision on U.S. 35, and a motorcyclist and his passenger were injured when their cycle went out of control on the Wood Road. Both incidents were investigated by the sheriff's department.

Deputies were called to the scene of an accident on U.S. 35, a mile-and-a-half north of the city, at 5 p.m. Saturday. The crash involved two cars and a Greyhound bus.

An auto driven by Marvin E. Wilson, 22, of Lancaster, was rounding a mild left curve when it crossed left of center and struck the left rear section of the bus driven by William E. Clay, 43, of Portsmouth, travelling in the opposite direction. The auto continued off the left side of the roadway, crashing through a fence on the property of Jordon Lester, on U.S. 35, near Palmer Road.

A car driven by Linda L. Jewett, 26, of Jamestown, which was directly behind Wilson, was struck by flying debris and went off the right side of the roadway.

Wilson received the only injuries, and was not hospitalized. No one from this area was on the bus. Damage to the three vehicles was extensive.

At 5 p.m. Saturday Robert Dilley, 36, of 1010 Rawlings St., was operating his motorcycle north on Wood Road, about a mile north of U.S. 22, when he failed to negotiate a left curve, overturning off the right side of the roadway. He and his passenger, Richard West, 19, of 1018 Rawlings St., were taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital. West is listed in fair condition. Dilley was treated and released.

County youth wins State Fair award

Fifty-four youths vied for similar honors in the junior showmanship contest. Top showman in this group was Marvin Lerrick, a three-year member of the Leesburg Livestock Club in Highland County. Marvin's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Lerrick Jr., Rt. 2, Leesburg.

The sheriff's department received two reports of larceny over the weekend. David Perry, of Bloomingburg reported that someone had taken his tool box from the porch of his home, and a report was received that someone had taken a fire extinguisher, reflectors, and a first-aid kit from a school bus parked at Interstate 71 and U.S. 35.

Martha Mitchell leaving husband

WASHINGTON (AP) — Martha Mitchell says her husband, former Gov. John N. Mitchell, is "going to jail," and she plans to leave him, according to the Washington Star-News.

An article in the newspaper's Sunday editions said Mrs. Mitchell was interviewed in a telephone call from her New York apartment. She indicated that she is bitter toward President Nixon, the newspaper said, saying her husband "had a fine reputation on Wall Street" until Nixon "got a hold of him."

Mitchell, currently under indictment in New York on charges of obstructing justice and attempting to defraud the government in connection with alleged campaign contributions to the Nixon campaign, resigned in July 1972 as director of the President's re-election campaign.

"We have been suffering," the newspaper quoted Mrs. Mitchell as saying in reference to the Watergate scandal.

Mrs. Mitchell was quoted as saying that she and her husband love each other very much, but their relationship was finished after an incident in California during the campaign in which she claimed she was "beaten up" by a Secret Service agent. Mrs. Mitchell told the Star-News that agent man-handled her to keep her from talking to the press.

The newspaper said Mrs. Mitchell said she had seen a "leather-bound campaign strategy book," containing plans for "dirty tricks," which was written by Nixon and his former aide, H.R. Haldeman.

She was quoted as saying the book included "the procedures of everything that has happened—I saw it with my own eyes."

The Star-News said it had contacted presidential Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, who said there is not and never has been a brown leather book connected with the 1968 and 1972 campaigns.

The article also said that Mrs. Mitchell said her husband talked frequently with Nixon during the summer of 1972 and that the President was aware of the truth of the Watergate case at that time.

Crowd attends Brast estate auction sale

To the surprise of no one, the Fine Arts Building at the Fairground was filled for the auction sale of antiques and other personal property in Roxy Stinson Brast's estate Saturday. Antiques and some farm equipment were consigned by Jim Sever and Bob Green Jr. The sale was conducted by Cockerill & Long.

The sale totaled a little more than $10,000, with $2,856 coming from items in Mrs. Brast's estate.

It is a foregone conclusion that many of those at the sale were there out of curiosity, hoping to find some of Mrs. Brast's momentos of the days she spent in Washington, D.C. during the Harding administration. Although most of the articles had

Letter bomb hurts woman at embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secretary at the British Embassy was seriously injured today in an explosion. Officials said a letter bomb apparently was the cause.

The secretary was sorting mail on the sixth floor of the embassy, officials said. The explosion occurred about 9 a.m.

George Washington University hospital officials identified the victim as 51-year-old Nora Murray and said she lost one hand and that the other was seriously injured.

Police and embassy officials sealed off the building to keep out newsmen but employees of the embassy were permitted to go to their jobs.

There have been more than 30 such bombing incidents during the past month in London.

The secretary-general of the London stock exchange and his private secretary were injured Friday by a letter bomb mailed to the chairman of the exchange.

British officials have blamed the Irish Republican Army for the London bombings.

Cyclamate ban reversal sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration will be asked later this month to reverse its 1969 ban on cyclamates, says Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt.

Abbott Laboratories will petition for the reversal and is expected to cite new research findings, Schmidt said in an interview. But he said the FDA will require "some harder scientific data than we've got now" before changing its mind about the cancer hazard of the food and beverage additive.

TEACHERS in both the Washington C.H. and Miami Trace District schools held general meetings Monday morning for a final review of plans for the reopening of the schools after the summer vacation. Classes will start Tuesday on the regular schedules. The teachers met last week with the principals of the various schools to get the background for the general meetings today.

At the offices of the superintendents, Edwin Nestor of the city schools, and Guy Foster, of the Miami Trace schools, it was reported that enrollments will not be known until after attendance is checked the first day.

The city schools include the senior high school, junior high school and five elementary schools. The Miami Trace system includes the high school and 11 elementary schools.

months, he said. He acknowledged that Abbott's new evidence may support the request to approve cyclamates again.

"I'm willing to accept the fact that data may come along that show that a lot of our decisions, in the light of new data, were unwarranted," he said. "In the light of old data they may very well have been warranted."

The agency's caution is heightened by the intensive review now underway on the safety of saccharin, the only non-nutritive sweetener remaining on the market and itself suspected of causing cancer in laboratory animal-feeding studies.

Federal law prohibits the use of any amount of a food additive that causes cancer in man or animals.

If a cyclamate approval followed on the heels of a saccharin ban, Schmidt said, "that would take a lot of explaining."

"I don't think we're going to do anything that we can't explain, and explain very well," he said.

Reviewing his first six weeks as commissioner, Schmidt said he plans to better educate the public, physicians and industry about "what we're doing and why we're doing it but, more importantly, the basis upon which we're doing it."

He expressed particular concern that the FDA may be infringing on individuals' freedoms, such as by regulating the composition of multiple vitamin pills.

"I think that the FDA will have to be awfully careful about its science in justifying any action that would drive a product off the market," he said.

But he added that his concern about industry economics is secondary to what he regards as the FDA's primary role of protecting the public health.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A new car buyer in California often can get a lower interest rate at a bank with headquarters in Tokyo, Hong Kong or Montreal than at one based in San Francisco or Los Angeles.

California's small and medium-sized banks are feeling the pinch of such foreign competition and are beginning to fight back. And that fight has plunged the California legislature into the world of international finance.

Thirteen foreign-based banks have California subsidiaries. They compete vigorously for customers by offering a full range of retail banking services, including low-interest loans.

Insurgents cut off 2 highways

Cambodian fighting flares

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Communist-led insurgents pushed closer to Phnom Penh today, cutting the capital's highway to the sea again at a point 15 miles from the city.

The fighting for control of Highways 4 and 5, the country's major supply lines, was the heaviest since the end of U.S. bombing 12 days ago. Battles were reported at several spots along both routes.

In the closest major clash, Khmer Rouge rebel forces surrounded a company of government troops a half mile from Ang Snoul on Highway 4, about 15 miles west of Phnom Penh. A civilian vehicle was ambushed and two persons were killed and another was wounded.

Highway 4 connects Phnom Penh with Kompong Som, Cambodia's only deepwater seaport, from which supplies flow into the capital city.

Skylab crew passes halfway point in space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 2's astronauts soared past the halfway point of their planned 59-day space journey early today.

"We're a happy and healthy crew up here," flight commander Alan L. Bean reported Sunday as the midway mark approached. "We're ready for the downhill leg."

Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma were in a sleep period when they slipped past the mark at 12:48 a.m. EDT. Their 85-ton laboratory was over the ocean south of Australia.

The three have circled the globe 429 times and flown more than 12 million miles since their launching July 28.

To start the second half of Skylab 2, the astronauts scheduled a day of medical and solar observatory experiments. Bean also planned a fifth test of a maneuvering unit that is worn like a backpack.

They spent several hours Sunday, their day off, checking some batteries that mission control fears are deteriorating more quickly than expected.

Flight director Milt Windler said the power loss was only an annoyance. But he said it could lead to curtailment later of some experiments, particularly earth resources surveys.

On Sunday, Garriott switched spiders in a cage where one spider, Arabella on the third try spun a near-normal web in a test to observe the effect of weightlessness.

"Arabella's been placed back in her vial, and Anita's now gambling around in the cage," Garriott reported.

Murder trial begins here

A second degree murder trial opened today in Fayette County Common Pleas Court with selection of a panel of jurors.

John A. Brown, 21, of Frankfort, is charged with second degree murder in the shooting death of Demeatris Louise Winfield, 17, of Chillicothe. Miss Winfield was fatally wounded April 13 at 721 Gregg St.

Brown was originally charged with first degree murder, but the charge was reduced to second degree murder when a Fayette County grand jury returned its indictment.

According to authorities, Miss Winfield and Brown were attending a party when Brown began waving a handgun.

The alleged murder weapon, a small 25 caliber automatic pistol, was found buried by a tree about 500 yards from the Gregg Street residence.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A Colombian airliner with 36 persons aboard crashed into the hills surrounding Bogota today, and authorities said apparently there were no survivors.

The legislative battle has pitted the state's big banks, including the giant Bank of America, against the smaller independent banks.

The battle revolves around two bills designed to stem the growth of foreign banking in the state.

One measure would prohibit any new foreign banks from entering the California market unless their home countries gave California banks the same privileges. It is awaiting a first hearing in the Senate Finance Committee.

A similar bill that has passed the

The cutting of the two highways left Mekong river convoys from Saigon as Phnom Penh's only sources of supply.

See tapes decision delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — It could be the end of October, or later, before there is a final court decision on whether President Nixon must release White House tapes to a federal grand jury and it is unlikely any indictments will be issued until then.

And, if the court battle goes beyond Dec. 5, the term of the grand jury investigating the break-in and cover-up would expire. There is no way of extending it under the rules of procedure for the federal courts.

The prosecutors could be forced to go ahead without the tapes or face the prospect of having to introduce a new panel to the complex case.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica has promised to have his decision on the tapes by Wednesday. But there still would remain the time-consuming written and oral arguments before the Court of Appeals and then the Supreme Court before a final decision.

According to many forecasts, it could be near the end of October before a decision would come from the Supreme Court.

The possibility that it could take even longer led Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox to appeal in his brief for quick action.

Light snow is reported in Sierras

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair skies and warm temperatures covered the nation today. But dense fog and haze settled over many areas of the North and East.

An early snowfall whitened areas near South Lake Tahoe, Calif., in the Sierra Mountains Sunday night. The California highway patrol said up to 2 inches fell on Highway 88 at Carson Pass and on Highway 89 at Luther Pass.

Dense fog rolled over the northern Great Lakes region and haze obscured vision from the upper Ohio Valley into New England and the Middle Atlantic states.

A few thunderstorms battered the northern Sierras from California to the northern and central Rockies. Others swept the lower Mississippi Valley and southern Florida and touched New England and New York.

Hot, humid conditions prevailed in most areas with a few scattered thunderstorms.

Several cities reported their hottest day of the year Sunday, including Sioux Falls, S.D., Milwaukee, Wis., and Springfield, Ill. Temperatures reached 97 in Chicago, equaling the record set in 1953.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 44 at Quillayute, Wash., to 89 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Guns blaze in Mideast

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Arab forces exchanged fire today along the cease-fire line in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria, the military command announced.

It was the first reported outbreak along the line since July 12 when the Israelis said three Syrian tanks entered the Golan demilitarized zone and opened fire on Israeli positions. One Syrian tank was knocked out in that encounter, the Israelis said.

The action today began when the Arabs opened up with bazookas and small-arms fire at an Israeli army patrol at the southern end of the heights, captured from Syria in the 1967 Middle East war, a communiqué said. The Israelis returned the fire.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The besieged gunman holding four hostages in a locked bank vault told police early today that he had tied them up to the walls. He said that if anesthetizing gas were pumped in they would strangle when they lost consciousness.

Police immediately suspended operations to capture the gunman and a convicted murderer with him and free the three young women and a man taken hostage last Thursday.

The police agreed to a truce until 9 a.m. EDT, lowered sandwiches and drinking water through an opening they had drilled in the ceiling of the vault, and withdrew their forces from the area. They gave no indication what they would do when the truce ended.

"We would not like to see these young people hanged, that's why we agreed to a truce," said Police Chief Curt Lindroth.

"We are dealing with an inhuman being who does not hesitate at anything. We could hear the girls plead for their lives. Their despair was genuine."

Police began drilling through the ceiling of the 19-by-40-foot vault Sunday night in apparent preparation for the gas attack. The gunman fired one shot into the vault's ventilator drum during the drilling, but nobody was hit.

The police had been trying to starve the gunman out since the six were locked in the vault on Saturday. Police

NIXON relaxes with drives along California freeways

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Three times in three days last week, the Coast Guard sent a brisk salute as an ordinary-looking sedan approached.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, President Nixon went out through the gate of the Western White House, seeking relaxation by cruising on California's busy freeways.

The President doesn't do the driving.

At the wheel of the latest excursions was either a Secret Service man or Nixon's Florida friend and neighbor, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Rebozo, who left Saturday after spending five days with Nixon at his oceanside estate, completed several years ago the driving course the Secret Service gives agents who drive the President's car.

After leaving the closely guarded compound, Nixon's car pulled onto nearby Interstate 5, a six-to-eight-lane freeway linking Los Angeles with San Diego.

The sedan, specially equipped with radio telephones but otherwise indistinguishable from other Lincoln Continentals, eventually ended up at "Red Beach," an isolated stretch of Pacific coastline usually used by Camp Pendleton's Marines to practice amphibious landings.

Two days earlier, Nixon gave Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler a forceful shove when he found that newsmen were about to enter a New Orleans convention hall door reserved for the official party.

For the past three years, other cars containing a four-member news service reporter-photographer pool also followed the President's freeway excursions.

But during his current stay, White House aides have refused to inform newsmen in time for them to join the presidential entourage.

The White House won't give a reason for the change in procedure. But it comes amid growing indications that Nixon is unhappy about being followed everywhere by Secret Service men and reporters.

At his news conference Wednesday, the President said he had sought unsuccessfully to have his Secret Service detail cut by one-third, saying: "As far as protection generally is concerned, I don't like it, and my family does not like it."

Two days earlier, Nixon gave Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler a forceful shove when he found that newsmen were about to enter a New Orleans convention hall door reserved for the official party.

Paper products in short supply

NEW YORK (AP) — Shortages of paper are causing increasing problems in the supply and availability of newspapers and such basic items as business forms, corrugated boxes, waxed paper and paper bags.

Much of the attention so far has focused on newspapers, some of which have run low on newsprint because of paper mill and railroad strikes in Canada. But increasingly tight situations also are being reported in a wide variety of other paper products.

A Los Angeles maker of bags and wrapping paper reports it is able to buy only 60 to 70 per cent of the paper it needs. A Bridgeport, Conn., grocery store says it is running out of paper bags. Gulf Oil Corp. says it finds suppliers are reluctant to bid on large orders of business forms.

In Washington, D.C., the General Services Administration reports that paper inventories are short millions of pounds.

An emergency procurement system based on national security priorities has been invoked "seven or eight times" in the recent past to supply paper to the Department of Defense, the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a GSA spokesman said.

The reasons cited for the paper shortages are many and complex. A principal consideration, observers say, is that new paper mills are costly and take two to four years to build. Several years ago, there was a glut of paper, prices were low and there was little incentive to build new plants.

Then came the business boom of the early 1970s, at the same time as governments were moving toward stricter pollution control. Industry officials say that over a billion dollars, or approximately one-half of all new capital investment, went into pollution control, cutting into funds for expansion.

Today, mills are reported working at full capacity. Yet industry officials say they have been hampered by such factors as economic controls, labor problems, bad weather in timber country, power cutbacks and a lack of investment capital.

"The return on investment has not been sufficient to attract a large amount of commitment to build new capacity," said Edwin A. Locke, president of the American Paper Institute.

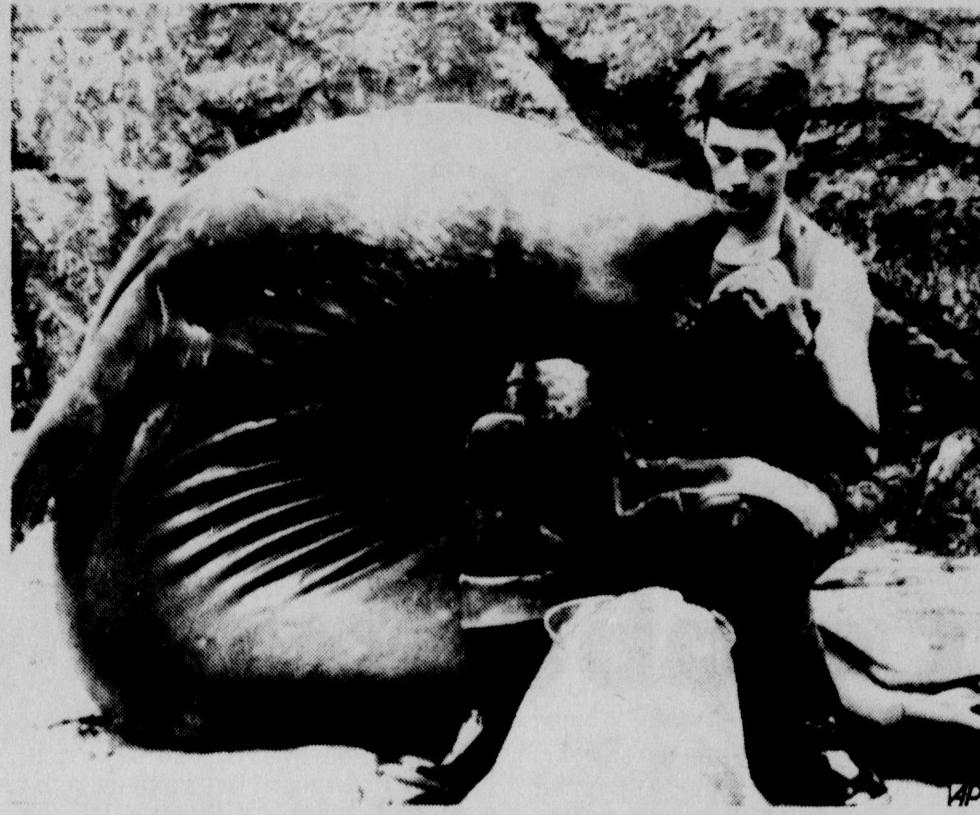

Some critics contend that, faced with overproduction and low prices in the late 60s, the paper companies deliberately avoided developing new capacity to create a tight supply and thereby raise prices.

"People who make those statements don't have the facts at hand," said Ralph Michaud, a paper industry analyst with the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

Sixteen new mills should be constructed by 1975, the paper institute reports, but that may not be enough to stave off spot shortages, higher prices, less variety, and a substitution of lighter for heavier weights of paper.

"While average annual capacity growth for all grades of paper was 3.7 per cent between 1956 and 1972, our most recent survey shows a modest annual increase of 1.4 per cent from 1972 to 1975," said John F. Darrow, senior vice president of the institute.

Nation's feminists demonstrate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Feminists staged demonstrations and fairs, conducted church services and honored their greats during "Equality Day" activities marking the 53rd anniversary of women's suffrage.

Seneca Falls, N.Y., site of the first women's rights convention 125 years ago, saw an elaborate ceremony Sunday to induct the first 20 members of the new Women's Hall of Fame.

"Great Guts" awards were presented in Los Angeles at a combined picnic, fair and demonstration sponsored by the National Organization for Women.

The awards honored women including Billie Jean King, the tennis star; Olga Connolly, the former Olympic athlete; Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., and singer Helen Reddy, who created something of a feminist anthem with her rendition of "I Am Woman."

In Washington, a women's fair continued in a park near the White House and a rally was set for today on the steps of the Capitol.

A Catholic feminist group demonstrated outside St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York to protest inclusion in the day's liturgy of a verse by St. Paul, Ephesians 5:22, saying: "Wives should be submissive to their husbands as if to the Lord."

Also in New York, a group called Lesbian Feminist Liberation converged on the American Museum of Natural History with a 20-foot long, lavender-painted "female" dinosaur made of paper-mache.

The day marked the signing Aug. 20,

1920, of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, giving women the right to vote. But a number of activities focused attention on the pending equal rights amendment intended to wipe out all discrimination against women.

In Cincinnati, bicyclists and roller skaters wheeled around Fountain Square in a "Ride for Rights." Feminists designated "Giant Step Backwards" awards for those they blamed for blocking ratification of the amendment in Ohio.

Women ministers led a feminist service at Trinity Methodist Church in Atlanta. At Christ Congregational Church in Princeton, N.J., there were readings from "The Women's Bible," written in the 1890s under the direction of Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

And "Roast chauvinist pig" was the main dish at a picnic held at Rock Springs, north of Orlando, Fla.

It was a warm, humid night across Ohio. At daybreak, most temperatures were still in the 70s. Readings ranged from 69 at Zanesville to a muggy 76 at Mansfield. Skies were generally clear, although some fog formed in the valleys of southern Ohio.

High pressure firmly anchored over the southern Appalachians brought warm, humid air northward over Ohio and deflected the path of low pressure disturbances to the north across the northern Great Lakes, southern Canada and western New York toward New England.

Not much change is in store in the overall weather picture for the next few days. Relief from the sweltering heat is not likely before the middle or latter part of the week.

Hot Wednesday with highs in the 90s and lows in the 70s. Cooler with a chance of showers Thursday and Friday. Highs in the 80s and lows in the 60s

Nelsonville man found slain

NELSONVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The murder of an 87-year-old Nelsonville man whose body was found gagged and bound to a chair was under investigation today, authorities reported.

They said C. W. "Pete" Evans apparently was strangled.

The body was found in Evans' ransacked home Sunday night, they said.

Evans lived alone, authorities said.

MRS. MARY ANN EADY — Services for Mrs. Mary Ann Eady, 87, of Columbus, were conducted in the Parrett Funeral Home here at 1 p.m. Saturday by the Rev. Howard Gray, pastor of the Second Baptist Church at 100 W. Broad St.

Mrs. Eady, who owned a beauty shop here many years ago, died Wednesday morning in the Monterey Inn, a Grove City nursing home. She was the widow of William Eady.

Mrs. Eady was active in Democratic politics, especially after she moved to Columbus. M.E. Sensenbrenner, former mayor of Columbus, who paid a personal tribute, and several other party leaders in Columbus and the state, came here for the service.

Mrs. Arthur Terry, Mrs. Oneita Street, Marvin Crosswhite and Dearl Alexander sang two hymns. Mrs. Street also sang a solo.

Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were Leroy Gray, Estle Haithcock Sr., Norris Haithcock, Joseph Gray, William Whitmore and James Haithcock.

Clean-air hearings under way

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency today was to start three days of hearings on proposed clean-air standards that could affect local economies throughout the nation.

The Congress and the courts have ordered EPA to ban significant new pollution of clean air and the agency is trying to define the point at which this level is reached.

The answer may determine whether new industries can move into a community and whether the community itself can be permitted to grow.

Under the Clean Air Act of 1970, EPA has set nationwide air quality standards to protect human health that must be met by 1975.

It also has set more stringent stan-

Gustav VI near death

HELSINGBORG, Sweden (AP) — King Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden lay in a coma today, his life slowly ebbing away.

The 90-year-old monarch still clung to life after massive stomach surgery and five days in a respirator, but his kidneys had almost stopped functioning and his heart was failing.

The king's doctor, Prof. Gunnar Biörck, said several Swedes had offered the king a kidney.

"We are grateful, but a kidney transplant is not presently under consideration," he said.

A hospital bulletin said the king had probably suffered additional intestinal bleeding early this morning and his condition was "still critical."

Hundreds of the king's subjects gathered during the night in front of the city hospital where the king lay at Sofiero, his summer home near Helsingborg.

Surgeons removed half of the king's stomach and part of the duodenum last Tuesday in an attempt to check a bleeding ulcer. He rallied after the operation but developed pneumonia Wednesday night.

Crude oil smears California beach

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Coast Guard says it doubts that the thick, sticky crude oil that has smeared beaches near here will cause any serious ecological problems.

Investigators still were trying to pinpoint the source, the Coast Guard said late Sunday. Beaches from Coronado to Rosarito, Mexico, about 15 miles south of the border, were affected.

Authorities said they hoped natural tidal action would clean the beaches, and the spill did not seem large enough to cause serious hazards to the environment.

RETURN FROM CAMP — Cadets and seniors of Squadron 1206, Civil Air Patrol, returned to Washington C.H. Sunday from the second Group XII encampment of the year held in southern Ohio. Training included map and compass, physical training, drills, search and rescue techniques, and water survival. The squadron is in first place in competition with one more encampment to go. Persons interested in joining the group should attend the training meetings held Thursday nights at the Sabina airport, or call Paul Woods, commander, 335-4644.

Newsprint squeeze watched closely

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Strikes against Canadian paper mills and railroads forced one Ohio daily newspaper to shut down for a day and threaten most others with cutbacks in their supply of white paper.

Hardest hit among Ohio newspapers appeared to be The Bellefontaine Examiner. For the first time in 82 years, the paper failed to publish Saturday.

"We've got two to three days' supply, and we decided that since Saturday is a light day, we'd lay off Saturday and come back Monday," said Publisher T. E. Hubbard.

He said the afternoon publication probably would close this week unless he is about to get paper trucked out of Canada.

"We're alert and being very cautious," reported Thomas R. Gormley, executive vice-president of the Cincinnati Enquirer. "The situation could become critical for the Enquirer if the Canadian rail strike is not settled next week, thus releasing supplies tied up in transit."

Frank R. Myers of the Middletown Journal said the newspaper was watching waste closely and trying "to squeeze the paper down where possible."

Mount Vernon News Editor Bob Dixon said, "We have eliminated certain cartoons, columns and other features to reduce usage of newsprint by 19 per cent in the last month."

Production Manager James P. Tracy reported The Columbus Dispatch was in good shape although he was watching the situation closely.

Publisher G. W. McCoy of the Wapakoneta News escaped major problems, he said, when he signed for the first time a five-year contract with a supplier. In the past he operated on two-year contracts.

The Thomson Newspapers reported two months' supply of newsprint in stock. The chain publishes the Greenville Advocate, Coshocton Tribune, East Liverpool Review, Marion Star, Lancaster Eagle-Gazette, Portsmouth Times, Salem News, Steubenville Herald Star, Zanesville Times Recorder and Canton Repository.

Gilligan speaks to Indiana Demos

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP) — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan told Hoosier Democrats over the weekend that "other Watergates will occur" unless due process of law is applied to President Nixon and his associates. Gilligan led the attack on the Nixon administration at the 93rd annual Indiana Democratic Editorial Association meeting here Saturday.

The Ohio governor told more than 400 persons at the meeting that Watergate should not be considered just another example of political corruption.

If this should happen, he warned, "We, the people, will have given up the reigns of our government to people who cynically violated their public trust."

Load of beef abandoned?

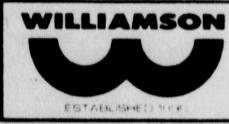

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — FBI agents and Cleveland police today were investigating the apparent abandonment of a truck loaded with beef in south Cleveland last week. Police said residents told them the truck had been parked along the street in front of a packaging company since Wednesday. Officers said the truck contained beef sides and hind quarters.

The FBI said the truck was from Des Moines, Iowa, and bound for Hartford, Conn.

House committees more open

A Common Cause survey shows a gratifying compliance with new House rules that committee sessions must be open to the public unless a majority votes for a closed session. There is a notable, and crucially important, exception to this generalization: secrecy, we are told in the survey report, "remains the rule of life in the powerhouse money committees that raise and expend federal dollars."

That condemnation applies with special force to the Ways and Means Committee. During the period of the survey, from the time the new rules were adopted on March 7 through

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Forgiveness followed by probation

WASHINGTON — Although I've been around for a bit, the Young Americans for Freedom were nice enough to ask me to serve as a host along with Dean Clarence Manion and General Thomas Lane on the evening of Senator Barry Goldwater's address to the seventh annual YAF National Convention. The YAFers, coming by the hundreds from all over the country, had practically taken over the Sheraton-Park Hotel for five days of seminars and politicking.

What was particularly inspiring to me about the gathering was the realization that the young conservatives and libertarians have a resurgent movement going at a time when the Students for a Democratic Society and other Leftist youth relics of the Sixties have been fading faster than the dollar on the Zurich exchange on the day before a devaluation.

The main portent for older Republicans in this YAF convention is that the young conservatives obviously hold other things than Watergate against the Nixon Administration. Sen. Barry Goldwater caught the mood of the gathering when he elaborated on his personal dilemma. In Barry's opinion Nixon, though he had not added anything to his previous declarations of innocence in his speech to the nation, had charity coming to him. It was time, so the YAFers' favorite Senator said, to pass on to some of the real problems that confront the republic. Watergate should not be allowed to obscure the mandate of the 1972 election. President Nixon had done good things. He had gotten those troops and POWs out of Southeast Asia and was on the way toward bringing the war to a somewhat honorable conclusion.

But at this point Barry Goldwater hit one savage note. Slashing out at Nixonomics, he said price controls had never worked and could not work. So Nixonomics, though the public may be confused on the point, is not going to carry out the anti-inflationary mandate of 1972 until it really tackles the monetary origins of our troubles.

"Gee, Elton — I don't know — I've only known you for twenty-two coffee breaks!"

June 15, this vitally important committee held every one of its bill-drafting sessions on the President's foreign trade proposal.

The Appropriations Committee has a similar record. Its bill-drafting sessions, as well as those of 12 of its 13 subcommittees, were closed.

The yen for secrecy was strongly felt in a number of other committees, too. Agriculture had 21 open sessions but held 9 in secret; Armed Services opened its doors for 13 sessions, but closed them for 8. A few committees even failed to comply with the requirement of a majority vote to close the doors, simply going into secret session without a vote.

It should be said, though, that on the whole the record of the House is rather impressive in this early trial of the new open-meeting rules. The bulk of the bill-drafting sessions were open, and the amount of work accomplished was about the same as when there was no open-meeting requirement. Now if only this spirit could be extended to those aforementioned "powerhouse money committees," we would really be getting somewhere.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you like to go to a zoo, the chances are that you are more intelligent than someone who doesn't. And you probably earn more money. A recent study found that almost three-fourths of the zoo-going public had a high school education or better. Less than half of the nonzoogoers did. The zoo buffs also had higher average incomes.

Groups volunteer to fight leukemia

During September 16,000 volunteers will be ringing doorbells throughout Central Ohio asking for help in the fight against leukemia. The Central Ohio Chapter of the Leukemia Society is conducting its annual drive to raise funds to support the society's programs of research, patient aid and public and professional education.

The main week of the drive is Sept. 4th to the 11th.

The Leukemia Society's main accent is research and since 1949 they have awarded $7,500,000 for 315 grants to investigators in the United States and foreign countries. During this period 9 grants have been made in Ohio, totaling $353,372. As of July 1, 1973, the Leukemia Society is giving support to 90 researchers.

In addition to research, the society makes patient aid available. Currently they have 50 patients living in 29 Central Ohio counties and four from out of state.

The society provides public and professional education. Speakers and programs are available upon requests at no charge — also, a movie, literature and slides.

In Washington C.H. many groups and over 50 individuals are volunteering their time to go door-to-door to help provide funds to support the Leukemia Society's programs.

The Knights of Columbus with Bill

Newton in charge will be working the Bell Aire Addition. In the Gilmore Addition, the Church of Christ in Christian Union will be working with Mrs. Alana Walkers as the leader. Mrs. Jane Wingerdham and Mrs. Helen Spilker will cover Lakewood Hills. A group from Miami Trace High School will be covering an area with Mrs. Pat Gall as their leader.

Good Hope will be covered by Vicki Miller and Jeannie Taylor.

Electric customers increase

During the year ending June 30, 281 new residential customers began receiving electricity from the Dayton Power and Light Co. in its Washington C.H. District. This is a 2.2 per cent increase for the year for a total of 13,162 residential electric customers, according to George Winkle, Washington C.H. district manager.

A little over 10,000 new meters were added throughout the 24-county DP&L service area, he said. The increase in the number of electric customers for the entire company was about three per cent. DP&L now has 380,000 electric customers.

The average residential customer's electric usage has doubled in the past

Leroy Crabtree at the Steel Data Processing will be covering areas.

Volunteers are still needed for Jeffersonville, Bloomingburg, New Holland and approximately 28 streets in Washington C.H. To volunteer call Mrs. Crabtree at 335-2849. Mrs. Crabtree will cover those areas not covered by other volunteers.

Because of the support of groups and individuals such as these, the Leukemia Society is able to continue their programs of research, patient aid and public and professional education.

Equal rights rally held in Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "I don't mind the 'women's libber' label," said Judy Sidwell, president of the Cincinnati chapter of the National Organization of Women, but she said the tag is one of several catchphrases used to fight equal rights for women.

The local NOW chapter led a rally of about 300 persons, including 19 other women's groups Sunday in celebrating the 53rd anniversary of women gaining the right to vote through the 19th Amendment to the United States Constitution.

The rally, expected to be an annual affair, also promoted ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Ms. Sidwell, a commercial artist for a local machine tool firm, disputed reports that women's libbers burn bras. "That never happened," she declared.

"These are fringe things resulting from a bad press. It takes the emphasis away from the real issue — equal rights, equal pay, laws that discriminate against women."

"These are things that opponents use to discredit the movement," she said. The rallies singled out Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King as a leading opponent of the ERA. The women charged he actively lobbied to bottle up the amendment in an Ohio Senate committee after it was passed in the House.

For his efforts, they said, he was being presented with one of three "Giant Step Backwards" awards made Sunday.

"Cincinnati NOW," said Ms. Charlene Ventura, coordinator of the rally, "feels that Mr. King could find

The Cincinnati Post and Times Star was commended for changing the name of its women's section to "People."

Ms. Ventura said she wasn't disappointed by the small crowd at the rally on Fountain Square Plaza. "We're not playing a numbers game."

Wedding in Sabina Church is on Saturday

Miss Cheryl Snider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snider of Sabina, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vaiden Long, 741 High St., became the bride of Robert Andrew Cluxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cluxton of New Vienna, in the Sabina United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Robert P. Miller performed the double-ring candlelight ceremony Saturday before an altar centered with an open Bible flanked by arrangements of white pompons and gladioli.

Forming the background were goblets of white gladioli and pompons and two seven-branch candelabra with pillows of jade foliage and palms. The bridal aisle was lined with white bows and aisle cloth and lighted candles encircled with foliage which were placed in the church windows, completed the setting.

Arnold Appel, vocalist, and Mrs. Walter Stackhouse, organist, both of Sabina, presented a half-hour of wedding music.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride, was lovely in her chapel length gown of pur silk organza and Venice lace. Her empire styled bodice was designed with long sheer sleeves accented with an overlay of delicate beaded floral patterned lace. The same design trimmed the bodice and accented the A-line skirt. A detachable, circular cut train, edged in the same lace and topped with a butterfly blow, fell gracefully to a chapel-length.

She wore a cap of matching lace, trimmed with a lace-edged bouffant veil, also chapel length. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses, miniature white carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. Phillip Rolfe of Sabina, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Mongold of New Vienna, sister of the groom. Mrs. Terry Miracle of Hillsboro, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Sidney Charles of Washington C.H., and Miss Mary Beth Morris of Sabina, served as junior bridesmaid.

All of the attendants wore Nile green dotted Swiss gowns with taffeta underlay. White lace trimmed the long sleeves and accented the front and back of the bodice. They wore Nile green puffed veils and carried colonial bouquets of pale pink carnations with pink streamers. The matron of honor carried a colonial bouquet of pale pink carnations and pink roses with pink streamers.

William Cluxton of New Vienna, brother of the groom, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Robert Mongold of New Vienna, brother-in-law of the groom, Terry Miracle of Hillsboro, and Michael

Former resident weds in Englewood Methodist Church

Englewood United Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Donna Lee Sterrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Sterrett, formerly of Worthington Rd., now of Sugar Loaf Village, Mich., and William D. Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Alexander of Englewood.

The Rev. George Sidwell and Rev. Gerald Wheat officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Hurricane aisle tapers decorated in rainbow colors of flowers and greenery made the background with an altar bouquet of rainbow colored flowers.

A prelude of wedding music was presented by Jim Long, organist, and Sharon Myhre, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory organza. The bodice was accented by a high neck and sheer yoke. A controlled A-line skirt fell from the fitted empire waistline ending in a detachable, cathedral-length train. The sheer fitted sleeves ended in soft bridal points. The entire gown and train was highlighted by beaded Alencon lace. She wore a camelot of matching lace which held a long veil and blusher of ivory illusion. She carried a colonial nosegay of bridal pink roses, white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Nancy Sterrett of Cadillac, Mich., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Linda Dixon, and junior bridesmaids, Diana Sterrett, sister of the bride, and Melissa Alexander, sister of the groom. Mrs. Thomas Lykins, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid.

All of the attendants wore crepe gowns of rainbow pastel colors of pink, orchid, blue, yellow and green. The split necklines on the gowns were edged with white Venice lace trim, which also was on the cuffs. They wore custom made headpieces of matching lilies and illusion. They, too, carried colonial nosegays of multi-colored flowers, baby's breath with ribbons to match their gowns.

Steve Pierce served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Tom Lykins, Eric Watrous, Doug Sterrett and Dale Sterrett, brothers of the bride.

The bride's mother chose a deep pink chiffon formal length gown for her daughter's wedding. The bodice and sleeves were of lace, and a bow of chiffon accented the high waistline and V-neckline, and full skirt. The bridegroom's mother wore a mint green double knit formal length gown with long sleeves and high neckline trimmed with lace. Both mothers wore

Charge for phone assistance planned by Cincinnati Bell

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati Bell said Sunday it believes it is one of the first telephone companies in the United States to receive permission to charge for directory assistance.

The firm plans to begin the charge sometime "in early 1974 when equipment is modified to handle it," a spokesman said Sunday.

Permission came Friday night from the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio

3 drownings are reported

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Authorities recovered the body of an eight-year-old Ohio youth from the Ohio River at River Downs Sunday and the body of a Cincinnati man was recovered in another drowning incident.

The youth, identified as Timmy Womack of Piqua, Ohio, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hulon Womack, who were residing at the River Downs Race Track in the barn area.

He was swimming with friends when he wandered away Saturday evening and went under.

The body of a Cincinnati man, David Reynolds, 36, was found Sunday in a swimming pool at Camp Marydale on Donaldson Road in Boone County, Ky. Officials said Reynolds had been missing since Saturday afternoon. He was with a group of 175 persons with the Hamilton County Council for Retarded Children. Dragging operations were being conducted for the body of a Newport, Ky. man who apparently drowned about 2 a.m. Sunday when he slipped off a cruiser in the Ohio River.

The victim was identified as Vic Rakosi, about 42. Officials said he was walking on the 26-foot cruiser when he slipped and fell into the river. Three friends who accompanied him on the boat were unable to rescue him.

The accident occurred about 100 yards from the Harrison Boat Harbor near Dayton, Ky. Rakosi was a mechanic for an automobile dealer in Covington.

as part of a $14.1 million rate hike package.

The rate increase went into effect Saturday. Home customers' bills will rise from $6.80 to $8.15 while commercial rates were hiked from $19 to $22.40 monthly.

The company said half the increases "will go for state and federal taxes."

Cincinnati Bell will allow each customer three, free directory assistance calls per month once the charges start. Each call after that will be 20 cents.

It will be 40 cents if the customer dials "0" for operator and is switched to directory assistance "because it involves two operators."

W. J. Whittaker said the firm sought the charges because 22 per cent of the customers are responsible for 87 per cent of such calls.

He said it was "unfair" to spread the cost of these calls to the rates charged other customers.

Cincinnati Bell did not report the cost of the calls now nor the amount of revenue expected once the charges begin.

There will be no charge for directory assistance calls from pay telephones or for people calling into the Cincinnati exchange from other areas.

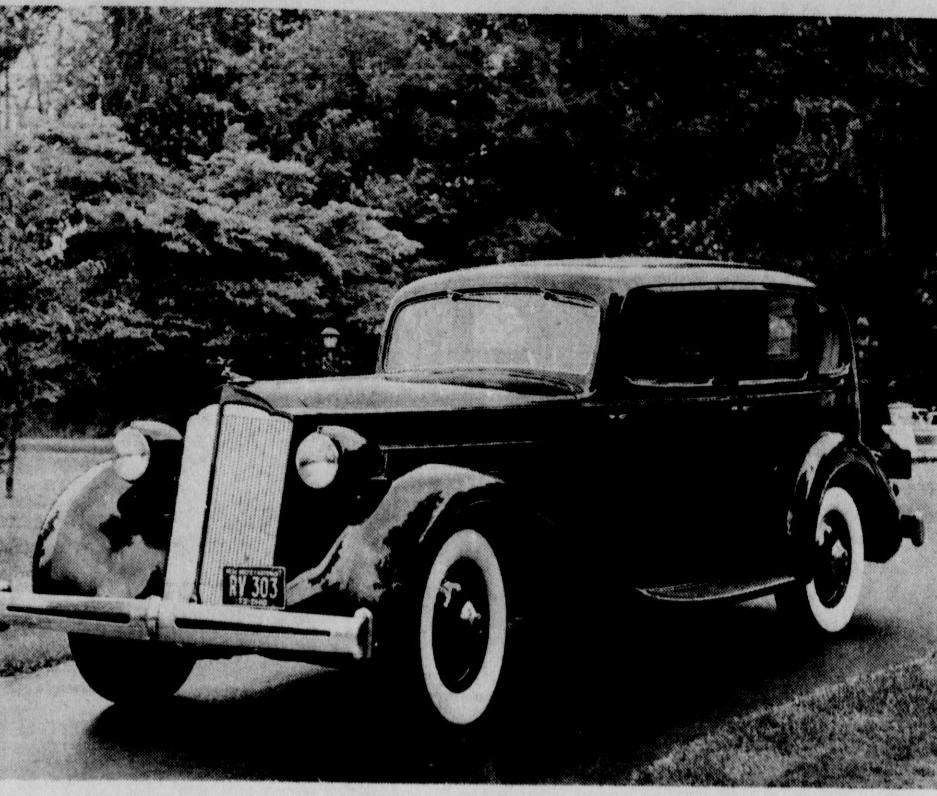

Also exempt will be hotel and hospital lines and persons unable to use a directory because of a physical disability.

These persons must be certified to the company by a physician, however, the spokesman said.

Kentucky man drowns after fall from barge

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jimmy David Suiter, 26, of Mayfield, Ky., drowned near here Sunday night in the Ohio River, the Adams County, Ohio, sheriff's department reported.

Suiter, a member of the crew of a two barge, was working on a tow barge, was working on a running light when he slipped and fell into the water, authorities said. His body was recovered from the river about five hours later.

AUTO SHOW SET—This elegant antique Packard, owned by Emile A. Legros Jr., will be on display at the first annual Cedar Point Antique Car Show and Swap Meet Sept. 7-9. The Commodore Perry Antique Car Club will host the event.

Motorcyclist deaths rise

Ohio Highway Safety Director Eugene P. O'Grady has expressed alarm over the 21 per cent rise in motorcyclist deaths in Ohio over the past two months.

Reviewing Highway Safety Department statistics, O'Grady points out that in the first six-month period this year 66 motorcyclists died on Ohio's highways compared to 42 motorcycle deaths for the same period in 1972.

July's motorcycle traffic deaths took a steep climb with 24 recorded, which represented 11 percent of the total highway traffic deaths. Motorcycle deaths recorded in July of 1972 represented only 7 percent of the total July deaths. The total motorcycle deaths in the first seven months of 1972 was 56 compared to 90 for the first seven months of 1973.

"Alarming statistics were recorded during the first half of August with 14 motorcyclists killed out of the first 67 reported traffic fatalities. This represents 21 percent of the total traffic deaths occurring," O'Grady said.

Motorcycle registration has increased over the past five years from 94,862 to 153,547 vehicles licensed, according to records of the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Director O'Grady points out several causes for the rise in motorcycle traffic crashes:

The motorists fail to see the smaller vehicle resulting in crashes involving failure to yield the right of way, improper turning, improper passing, and driving left to center. These actions occur when the motorists fail to register the image of the two-wheeled vehicle as a part of the passenger car and truck traffic flow.

Motorcyclists kill and injure themselves through inability to properly handle their vehicles and not observing the traffic laws. The number of single vehicle crashes involving motorcycles indicates that improper speed or lack of experience in controlling the vehicle is probable cause for the crashes.

Acting director named for Lucasville Prison

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The acting superintendent who took over at the prison here last Wednesday told representatives of three guard unions Friday he would establish an advisory committee of officers to work with supervisors.

Bernard Barton was appointed by the department of correction and rehabilitation last week after W. J. Whealon resigned following nearly a year as warden at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility containing almost 1,000 inmates. The prison opened last September.

Since that time, the atmosphere has been tense including the shooting

'Missing' family located in a post card from Mellen, Wis., postmarked July 4.

Subsequently, police launched a 10-day air and ground search when citizen band radio operators picked up transmissions from a boy saying he was trapped in an overturned pickup and his father was dead.

However, no trace of the boy was found and authorities have not ruled out the possibility it was a hoax.

The family voluntarily went into Wenatchee to talk to Chelan County sheriff Dick Nickells and state patrol authorities, the patrol said.

They have returned to their campsite. The patrol said the batteries in the families citizens band radio were dead and had been dead for some time.

Large crowd attends midget auto program

A large crowd attended the special midget car race program held Saturday night at the Fayette County Fairgrounds track.

The grandstands were nearly filled for the five-race program, sponsored by Raceway Promotions, of Washington C.H., and sanctioned by the Buckeye Auto Racing Association.

No injuries were reported following two crashes, one in the opening trophy dash and one in the second eight-lap heat. Some of the fence circling the race track was damaged and a light pole was also broken.

The five-race program attracted a total of 23 entries and Jack Calabrase, of Lansing, Mich., captured the 25-lap feature race. Calabrase, driving a Chevy II owned by Bill Baldwin, of Cedarville, won the feature after a struggle with Denny Lott, of Akron.

Washington C.H. area drivers fared well in Saturday's competition. Gary Ivers, of Washington C.H., finished second in the opening four-lap trophy dash, Washington C.H.'s Ralph Coil was second in the third heat.

In pre-season scrimmages

MT clouts Shermans; Dragons down Lions

Fayette County's high school football teams opened their pre-season interscholastic scrimmage schedules on contrasting notes Saturday morning.

Miami Trace's Panthers employed a successful passing offense in whipping future South Central League member Unioto 4-1, while Washington C.H. was not at all pleased with its aerial attack in a 5-3 loss to a rugged Kettering Fairmont West team.

FRED ZECHMAN, new head football coach at Miami Trace, indicated that he was pleasantly surprised with the Panthers' passing offense, but noted disappointment in the rushing attack.

Unioto, under the direction of head coach Joe McFadden, flashed a strong defense against Miami Trace's running attack, but the Panthers managed to stack up 398 total offensive yards.

Junior halfback Tom Pfaff hit paydirt three times in the scrimmage against the Shermans. Pfaff was on the scoring end of two touchdown strikes from junior quarterback Tom Riley and also hit paydirt on an 83-yard run.

Jay Mossbarger set the stage for both of the Riley-to-Pfaff touchdowns with a pair of 40-yard receptions.

Miami Trace's other touchdown came when senior David Holbrook grabbed a 28-yard pass from Riley.

The Shermans scored their only touchdown of the scrimmage contest on a 33-yard pass play.

The fine faking of fullback Doug Ford and the performance of Riley gained praises from Zechman. The Miami Trace mentor was also pleased with the showings of defensive backs Jeff Ruth and Kent Smith.

Jeff Long, a senior tackle, emerged as the Panthers' top defensive player, while Mossbarger also turned in a fine performance from his defensive tackle spot.

Zechman said he plans to emphasize the running game when the Panthers travel to Jackson Wednesday for their second scrimmage contest of the season.

Washington C.H. clashed with an exceptionally big and quick Fairmont West team. Dick Hoppe, Fairmont West's head coach, termed the 1973 Dragon version as the best he's had in his term at the Kettering high school.

Head coach Maurice Pfeifer expressed disappointment with the Blue Lions' interior line, but was pleased with Washington C.H.'s goal line offense and defense. All three of Washington C.H.'s touchdowns were from inside the 10-yard line.

THE LIONS, perhaps a bit jittery, were sharp defensively in the first half when they zipped to a 3-2 lead at intermission and displayed sharp blocking techniques in the second half.

All 44 of the Blue Lion gridders dressed played at least two quarters, and Pfeifer was pleased with the showings of Steve Mosley on defensive and Larry Dumford at the fullback and middle linebacker positions.

Fairmont West hurt Washington C.H. primarily through the middle with trap and option plays, and scored once on a pass interception.

The Fairmont West quarterback suffered a fractured ankle on the fifth play of the scrimmage and will probably be sidelined for the season. The Lions emerged without any injuries.

The Washington C.H. booster club ticket drive will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday and the annual meet the team session will be held Saturday night at Gardner Park Stadium. Admission is a bar of soap.

Schroeder and Greene golf winners

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Last winter, Bert Greene was in a hospital in northern California with a gunshot wound in his right foot. Down the coast in La Jolla, John Schroeder had his left hand in a cast and was wondering if his brief career was over.

Both capped their comebacks Sunday with companion victories in pro golf's only doubleheader — Schroeder sweeping through a sparkling field of stars to the Match Play championship and Greene outlasting veteran Miller Barber in a fivehole sudden death playoff for the title in the L&M Open.

It was the first American victory for each, and they joined Hawaiian Open champion John Schlee as the only first-time winners on the pro tour this season.

"This is one of the greatest days — certainly the luckiest day — of my life," said Greene, a lean, 29-year-old veteran of seven years on the tour.

Greene's career appeared to be in danger last year when he accidentally shot himself in the foot. He had a pistol in his golf bag and the gun discharged while he was loading the bag in the car.

He picked up $20,000 from the total purse of $100,000 after dropping a six-foot birdie putt on the fifth extra hole. He and Barber had finished the regulation 72 holes tied at 278 — six-under par on the 6,786-yard MacGregor Downs Country Club course.

The match play was on the same course, with the 27-year-old Schroeder beating graying veteran DeWitt Weaver 2-up in the final after disposing of Lee Trevino 1-up with a birdie on the 18th hole of the morning semifinals.

Clock stirs dispute in Buffalo setback

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Buffalo Bills have a new 80,000-seat stadium but can't shake an old nemesis — losing.

The Chicago Bears handed the Bills their fourth straight loss 13-10 Sunday in a controversy-filled National Football League pre-season game.

In Sunday's other NFL games, the New York Giants beat the Pittsburgh Steelers 29-24; the San Francisco 49ers punished the Denver Broncos 43-7 and in the only night action, the Green Bay Packers tripped the Kansas City Chiefs 21-16.

The Rich Stadium clock was inoperative throughout the second half and the officials on the field kept the official time with stopwatches, causing some problems.

The Bills were down 13-10 in the waning seconds of the game, but were driving toward the Bears' goal line. Then Dennis Shaw found J.D. Hill with a 50-yard bomb.

Chicago's Allan Ellis tackled Hill which led to the two players mixing it up as the officials permitted the clock to run out.

"We were told there were 16 seconds left by the judge on our side and now we find out there were only four seconds left," said Bills' Coach Lou Saban.

In another game the Giants gained their fourth victory in as many tries, going ahead early as New York safety Spider Lockhart intercepted a second period Terry Bradshaw pass and zoomed 42 yards for a touchdown, breaking a 3-3 tie.

Jan Stenerud kicked three field goals and Jeff Kinney scored on a one-yard TD plunge for Kansas City.

San Francisco scored two touchdowns before Denver completed an offensive play and had 40 points before the Broncos could dent the scoreboard.

Steve Spurrier threw TD passes to Gene Washington and Ted Kwalik while Bruce Gossett kicked four field goals to pace the romp.

MacArthur Lane rushed for one touchdown and threw for another while quarterback Scott Hunter added the Packers' third six-pointer in the Green Bay Packers' 21-16 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

Jean Stenerud kicked three field goals and Jeff Kinney scored on a one-yard TD plunge for Kansas City.

Saturday, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the New York Jets 13-10; the New England Patriots pounded the New Orleans Saints 31-6; the Minnesota Vikings trounced the Oakland Raiders 34-10; the San Diego Chargers defeated the Philadelphia Eagles 24-17; the Washington Redskins breezed by the Baltimore Colts 20-3 and the Cleveland Browns trimmed the Atlanta Falcons 20-17.

Thursday night, the Houston Oilers nipped the Dallas Cowboys 27-24.

Friday night, the Miami Dolphins stopped the Los Angeles Rams 17-14 and the Cincinnati Bengals beat the Detroit Lions 17-10.

Morgan matches mark with homer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is the Joe Morgan doll. Wind it up and watch it go.

The diminutive Cincinnati second baseman was all wound up Sunday... and as a result, tied a major league record with a home run.

"That's the one I wanted," said Morgan, after his two-run homer helped the Reds beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1.

Morgan thus became the third player in baseball history to hit at least 20 homers and steal 50 bases in a single season. He has 55 steals so far this year.

Sharing the record with him are Houston's Cesar Cedeno and St. Louis' Lou Brock, who stole his 50th base of this season Sunday for another mark of distinction. Brock set a record of nine straight seasons of 50 or more steals, breaking Ty Cobb's record of eight.

Morgan's homer in the seventh inning helped the Reds break open a tight game. Fred Norman, the Cincinnati starter, won his 11th contest.

In the National League's other games, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3; the San Francisco Giants edged the New York Mets 5-4; the San Diego Padres downed the Montreal Expos 4-2; the Atlanta Braves turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-6, and the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Houston Astros 4-2.

Dodgers 7, Phillies 3

Joe Ferguson and Ron Cey blasted home runs and Steve Garvey knocked in two runs with sacrifice flies, giving Los Angeles a 7-3 decision over Philadelphia.

The victory gave the Dodgers a sweep of their three-game series in Philadelphia and kept them four games ahead of Cincinnati in the National League West.

Tolan, management in fiery argument

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Bench said the Cincinnati Reds can't afford to let teammate Bobby Tolan's word war with management interfere with the pennant struggle.

"We have a job to do. This is Bobby's own personal problem. If it were an internal thing it might be different. We just have to keep putting nine men on the field and get after 'em," said Bench.

Tolan defied Reds' officials Sunday by ignoring a ban on entering the clubhouse and later challenged the club to remove him from the pressbox.

Tolan said he's "fed up with Cincinnati" and will refuse to apologize or pay a fine for a clubhouse incident.

He was fined $350 Saturday for a fiery argument with a high-ranking Reds' official and was later placed on the disabled list for 15 days.

The Reds said he would have to apologize to Sheldon "Chief" Bender for "insubordination and abusive language" before he could enter the clubhouse or join the team on the dugout bench.

He was fined $250 for the action and another $100 for missing a physical examination, the Reds said.

Bender, the team's director of player personnel, asked Tolan to submit to a physical examination. Tolan, who has been struggling with one of his worst seasons, said Bender told him that "all you care about is Bobby Tolan."

Bender then said, according to Tolan, "well, if you don't go you may not be on this club tomorrow."

"That did it," said Tolan. "Why threaten me?"

"I pushed him and he tried to get back at me," the Reds' official said.

"I have not apologized and I am not going to," Tolan said. "It's all one-sided. I'm fed up with the way things are going in Cincinnati. I'm not talking about one person. It's management."

Tolan sat in the clubhouse prior to the game against St. Louis and later went to the pressbox.

Manager Sparky Anderson, aware of Tolan's presence in the lockerroom, the National League's first 20-game winner and Dave Kingman knocked in four runs with a homer and single in the Giants' 5-4 victory over New York.

"It's every pitcher's dream, a dream come true for me," said Bryant as his record reached the 20-mark.

Padres 4, Expos 2

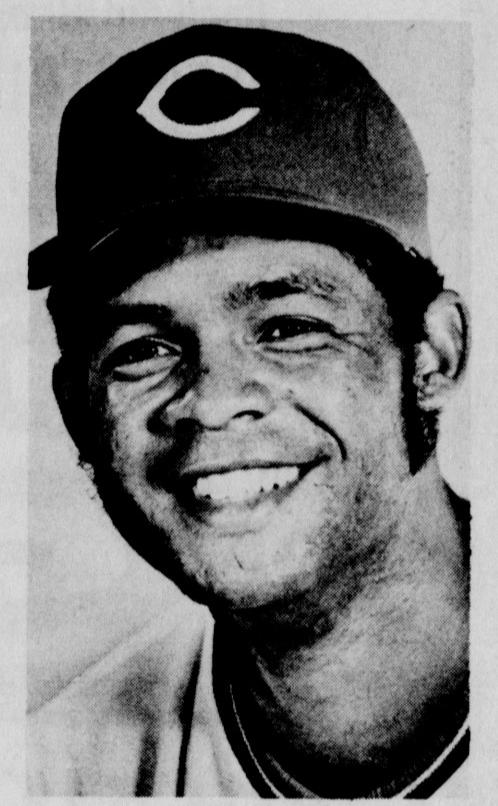

A two-run homer by Dave Roberts snapped a tie in the ninth inning and carried San Diego over Montreal 4-2. "My big pitch today was my curve ball," said San Diego's winner, Randy Johnson.

Pirates 6, Braves 5

Dave Johnson became the major league's home run leader with 36, a grand slam shot that helped Atlanta beat Pittsburgh 8-6. Johnson took a step closer to Roger Hornsby's 42 homer record for second basemen.

Cubs 4, Astros 2

Carmen Fanzone drilled three hits, including the game-winning single, carrying Chicago over Houston 4-2. "It was a weird feeling, getting to play the whole game," said Fanzone, who was subbing for regular third baseman Ron Santo.

BOBBY TOLAN

said "I know he's there. But I'm not going to have him bodily removed."

"He has no part of this club as far as I'm concerned," said Anderson.

Tolan was the National League's Comeback Player of the Year last season. He hit .283 and stole 42 bases.

When a doorman informed Tolan he was not to enter the pressbox, he responded, "you tell management they can come and get me."

Reds' President Bob Howsam and his assistant, Dick Wagner, appeared in the pressbox, but neither approached Tolan, who viewed the game from a front row seat.

"He has his own ideas. It's his business," said Bench. "We didn't have a letdown after losing Dave Concepcion and there won't be one now."

"I'm sure he's very frustrated. I know how it is. I've been there myself," said Bench.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARbutt
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most television weather reports try to give viewers a down-to-earth idea of what's blowing in the wind. But one TV report sets its sights far higher. It's aimed at private pilots.

It's called "Aviation Weather" and is broadcast live Thursday and Friday nights, primarily for weekend fliers. Right now it's only seen on about 20 public TV stations in seven East Coast states.

But the Federal Aviation Administration says it wishes the show were nationally broadcast to help reduce weather-related flying accidents. The FAA says such accidents caused approximately one-third of the 600 general aviation fatalities in the U.S. last year.

"Aviation Weather," produced by the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting, is the brainchild of Vic Turner, a 34-year-old private pilot and an engineer at the center, located in Owings Mill, Md.

"It was something pilots have needed for a long time," said Turner, who got the show on the air in June 1972.

He said the problem for many private pilots is that most weather information facilities for fliers are based at large airports where heavy airline use discourages light plane traffic.

Private pilots seeking detailed weather reports either have to get them in person at the airports or phone them on the air in June 1972.

Officials at the center say that on Oct. 4 the late show will be dropped and the early show begin at 7 p.m. They also say it may start appearing on some public TV stations in the South in October if arrangements can be made.

Turner said the show doesn't restrict its reports to the Eastern Seaboard. "We give the entire country. We don't hit the West Coast as hard as we should, but it's there. If you're flying there, you'll know what weather you're going into."

The program appears twice on Thursday and Friday evenings. The first show lasts 30 minutes, divided into weather information and pilot education segments. It starts at 7:30 p.m. The next show, devoted entirely to weather, starts at 11 p.m. and runs 15 minutes.

All the forecasts include detailed visual illustrations of weather patterns and estimates of significant weather developments expected from 12 to 48 hours after each show.

could have nailed down the contract very easily by playing the A-x of trumps and finessing the jack.

But lacking X-ray eyes on this occasion, Belladonna instead cashed the A-K of trumps and now seemingly had to go down one.

Never one to give up, he led a low club from dummy, East rising with the ace to cash his high trump and exit with a club. Belladonna won with the king, cashed the heart ace, entered dummy with a club, and ruffed the queen of hearts to produce this position:

Now Belladonna played the A-x of diamonds, West producing the ten followed by the jack, and East found himself unhappily winning the trick. He was forced to return a heart and as a result declarer made the contract.

Actually, both defenders missed their cue — East by failing to drop the queen of diamonds on the ace, and West by failing to recognize that Belladonna could not have the A-Q of diamonds and play as he did. West should have gone up with the king to make sure of stopping the contract.

Opening lead - two of hearts.

Nobody defends perfectly. It follows from this that if declarer gives his opponents the maximum amount of rope they will sometimes fall from grace. No one is more adept at this than Giorgio Belladonna of the Italian Blue Team, and here is a sample of his prowess.

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The Virtues of Tonsillectomy

In a column last week, I pointed out the injustice that can be done by overenthusiastic and uninformed writers who exploit controversial topics in medicine.

For years, the tonsillectomy operation in children and the hysterectomy operation in women have been good subjects for such controversy. Yet both of these operations are beneficial to health and chosen with discrimination and good judgment.

The integrity of the surgeon must be accepted, or the total structure of the doctor-patient relationship must crumble. Outside threats to this relationship do the patient and the doctor a great injustice.

Let us inspect some of the factors that surround the tonsils, the adenoids, their value to health, and their threat to health when they become diseased.

The tonsils and adenoids are lymphoid tissue which is now acknowledged as playing an important role in the immunity against infections in infancy and early childhood.

But it is felt that protective mechanism can exhaust itself and, in fact, reverse this role by becoming a trouble-maker.

Then the tonsils and adenoids can be responsible for the repeated infections and complications for which their removal is suggested.

Many children past the age of 4, 5, and 6, spend their entire winters with intermittent sore throats, fever, enlarged glands and on a regime of antibiotics and gamma globulin injections. Many who enter kindergarten and their first year at school pick up every conceivable germ that they are exposed to and spend half of their time out of school, invalidated by infections.

What criteria do ear, nose and throat specialists have for the removal of tonsils and adenoids?

1) Repeated attacks of tonsillitis, with swelling of the tonsils and fever.

2) Tender, swollen glands along the side of the neck, associated with these infections.

3) Marked nasalism of speech owing to enlarged adenoids.

4) Snoring at night because the adenoids prevent the free passage of air through the nose.

5) Pus and infection in the nose, persistent running nose.

7) Hearing loss, with or without the accumulation of fluid behind the eardrum. Because of long-sustained antibiotic treatment, thick, gelatinous fluid of honey consistency collects behind the eardrums and interferes with the hearing mechanism.

8) Speech defects, especially those associated with nasalism.

From the point of view of the ear, nose and throat specialist any one, or a combination of any of these problems, may be an indication for surgery.

Can the child outgrow these problems? Yes, they can in some instances. But more often, a greater injustice can be done to the child by waiting than there is by performing a tonsillectomy and an adenoidectomy.

When the surgeon, the pediatrician, and the general physician agree, benefits from this operation are invaluable to healthy development.

Mosquito control method successful

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say they have found a way to control pesticide-resistant mosquitoes without drenching the countryside with harmful chemicals.

Synthetic growth hormones capable of controlling mosquitoes are being tested with great success, a group of University of California entomologists said.

The hormones, when sprayed on wet areas where mosquitoes breed, disrupt the normal growth pattern of mosquito larvae. Some grow so fast they split their shells and die; others grow so slowly they die before maturity.

Health officials have been concerned because mosquitoes, which carry such diseases as encephalitis and malaria, sometimes develop resistance to traditional pesticides.

The growth hormones, on the other hand, are environmentally safe and dissipate quickly into harmless substances after being used, the researchers said.

"This is much more environmentally and ecologically sound, but of course it is also much more expensive, more difficult and more slow," said Raymond Coppock of the university's agricultural extension program here.

Dr. Emil Dupras of the UC Mosquito Control Research Laboratory in Fresno said farmers now pay about 10 cents an acre for pesticide spraying but the hormone treatment could cost between $1.50 and $4.50 an acre.

"If they can still get along with the organophosphates, they're going to do it," said Don J. Womeldorf, a state public health biologist.

Womeldorf said the hormones were especially welcomed by public health authorities in California. He said California mosquitoes "have developed great resistance to organic phosphate pesticides which have formed the backbone of mosquito-control programs for the past 20 years."

15 face charges in weekend incidents

The Washington Police Department arrested 15 persons over the weekend for a variety of offenses. Those arrested face a total of 25 charges including intoxication, resisting arrest, assaulting an officer, possession of marijuana, and selling alcoholic beverage to an intoxicated person.

Two of the 16, David Lee Haven and Ronnie Stone, are charged with five and four violations respectively. In addition to those arrested, a total of 11 juveniles were picked up for curfew violations and were released to their parents.

Haven, 23, of 425 Second St., was arrested early Saturday morning after a patrolman was dispatched to a Peabody Avenue address to investigate a complaint. Patrolman Mike Stritenberger attempted to arrest Haven for intoxication, but the subject became rowdy, resisted, arrest, and finally assaulted Stritenberger, according to police. After a short scuffle, the patrolman, who received hand lacerations and a dislocated thumb, was able to handcuff Haven and take him to jail.

About two hours later, Haven asked to use the telephone. He was taken from the jail so that he could make a call. At that time he struck patrolman William Robinson with the telephone receiver and attempted to flee. Injuries resulting from the struggle that ensued required that Haven be hospitalized. He has been charged with intoxication, two counts of resisting arrest, and two counts of assaulting a police officer.

Weekend crashes injure 3 persons

Two traffic accidents over the weekend resulted in injuries to three persons, one of whom remains hospitalized. One person was hurt in a three-vehicle collision on U.S. 35, and a motorcyclist and his passenger were injured when their cycle went out of control on the Wood Road. Both incidents were investigated by the sheriff's department.

Deputies were called to the scene of an accident on U.S. 35, a mile-and-a-half north of the city, at 5 p.m. Saturday. The crash involved two cars and a Greyhound bus.

An auto driven by Marvin E. Wilson, 22, of Lancaster, was rounding a mild left curve when it crossed left of center and struck the left rear section of the bus driven by William E. Clay, 43, of Portsmouth, travelling in the opposite direction. The auto continued off the left side of the roadway, crashing through a fence on the property of Jordon Lester, on U.S. 35, near Palmer Road.

A car driven by Linda L. Jewett, 26, of Jamestown, which was directly behind Wilson, was struck by flying debris and went off the right side of the roadway.

Wilson received the only injuries,

Ronnie Stone, 18, of 433 E. Elm St., was arrested early Sunday morning at the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot for disturbing the peace and having an open container of intoxicating liquor in a public place. At the time he allegedly threatened the officers at the scene and resisted arrest. Charges of making menacing threats and resisting arrest were also filed by the department.

Edgar C. (Clay) Snyder, 45, of 147 S. Fayette St., a bartender at the Dublin Bar, was arrested for selling an alcoholic beverage to an intoxicated person. Arrested at the same time was Robert Russell, 48, of 13 Central Place, for intoxication.

A 17-year-old city youth was arrested early Sunday morning and charged with possession of marijuana. He was observed at the Washington Square parking lot and was arrested a short time later as he drove on Columbus Avenue.

Also Sunday morning, Joseph Bryant, 32, of 624 Rawlings St., who had been involved in a domestic quarrel, was arrested for disturbing the peace. He too resisted arrest and was so charged.

Others arrested over the weekend at the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot on alcohol-related charges were Edwin E. Marriman, Michael E. Bennett, Larry E. Manns, David K. Reynolds, Kevin A. Jones, Ricky L. Curnutte, Timothy G. Merritt, Ricky V. Southworth, and Barbara J. Burkett.

and was not hospitalized. No one from this area was on the bus. Damage to the three vehicles was extensive.

At 2 p.m. Saturday Robert Dilley, 36, of 1010 Rawlings St., was operating his motorcycle north on Wood Road, about a mile north of U.S. 22, when he failed to negotiate a left curve, overturning off the right side of the roadway. He and his passenger, Richard West, 19, of 1018 Rawlings St., were taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital. West is listed in fair condition. Dilley was treated and released.

County youth wins State Fair award

Mike Coe, 16-year old member of the Ambitious Farmer 4-H Club in Fayette County, was the Senior Champion Showman today in the Junior Fair Barrow Showmanship contest at the Ohio State Fair. Mike's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clark Coe, Jeffersonville. The new state champion showman is a seven-year veteran in showing swine at the State Fair. He owned the Landrace champion hogs from 1967 through 1972.

Forty-five 4-H and FFA members took part in the senior division of this year's showmanship contest.

Fifty-four youths vied for similar honors in the junior showmanship contest. Top showman in this group was Marvin Lerrick, a three-year member of the Leesburg Livestock Club in Highland County. Marvin's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Lerrick Jr., Rt. 2, Leesburg.
